More Queer Angles Develop In Inquiry Into Train Murder

(By International News Service)

LOS ANGELES — The plot in the "Mystery of Lower 13" train killing thickened today as a zoot-suit Negro cook formally was booked on murder suspicion and a number of "mystery" witnesses added bizarre testimony regarding the knife-slaying of Mrs. Martha James, 21, navy wife.

Robert Folkes, 20, second cook on the death train, was removed from the Southern Pacific limited by Los Angeles police who acted for Oregon authorities. Mrs. James, four-month bride of Ensign Richard F James, was slain in her berth last Friday night as the train sped through Oregon.

"I did not do the actual killing," detectives quoted Folkes as saying as they relentlessly took him over details of his original story.

"Folkes has told us about eight different versions of his story," police said. "But in none of those versions has he given convincing account for the 20 minutes during which the murder probably was committed."

Protesting his innocence, Folkes admitted to police that he had been drinking before the tragedy. He has a Los Angeles police record dating back to 1940, when he was arrested for vagrancy and suspicion of attacking a white woman, and on another occasion

SOLDIERS KILLED

Two Dead, 16 Others Injured In Train Collision.

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal —(INS)—Two soldiers were killed and at least 16 other persons were critically injured late last night when a crack westbound Santa Fe passenger train plowed into the rear of a freight train four miles north of San Bernardino.

Army authorities withheld identity of the victims pending notification of their next of kin.

The passenger train, the Grand Canyon limited, caused the freight engine and five cars to be derailed. Several of the freight cars were hurled 350 yards from the track.

The soldiers, witnesses said, were passengers in the freight caboose, which was shattered by the impact.

India's Future Clouded In Uncertainty, Bromfield Says

By KEN WOODMAN

"The future of India at this hour in history is entirely unpredictable," Novelist Louis Bromfield last night told members and guests of the Parent-Teacher association at Country Day school.

"It is bound up with the future of the whole Orient—particularly Burma, Java, Sumatra and Thailand. And those states will never willingly consent to be taken back into the British, Dutch and French empires.

"Only the Philippines, I believe, of all the 'colonial' areas of the Orient are willing now to return to the rule which existed for them before the war," the novelist added. "And whatever the British, Dutch and French may want . . . the Russians and Chinese are going to have a great deal to say about settlement of affairs in the Far East after the war."

Sketching briefly his own visit to India and his talks with Indian leaders, Bromfield pointed out that it is a nation not quite as large as the United States with a population of 330,000,000, growing by several millions every year. Three hundred million of these people are illiterate, he said. They live mostly in rural areas and 90,000,000 of them have never heard of Britain and have no word for "freedom" in their share of the 27 entirely different languages spoken in the country.

Bromfield said there are 15 distinct races intermingled in the

Col. Chevalier To Be Speaker For Chamber Banquet

Mansfield Chamber of Commerce has obtained Col. Willard Chevalier, vice president and director of McGraw-Hill Publishing company and publisher of Business Week, as the speaker for its annual dinner meeting Tuesday Feb. 9, at the Mansfield Leland hotel.

The nationally-known publisher will stop in Mansfield between Chicago and Cleveland engagements, John G. Routzon, secretary-manager of the chamber, said today. His subject has not been announced but it will undoubtedly be drawn from the field of American business and industry with which he has maintained a close contact, Routzon said.

Col. Chevalier entered the publishing field in 1922 as associate editor of Engineering News-Record and later became publisher of that paper. In 1926 he launched for the company a new venture in industrial journalism, Construction Methods, a pictorial construc-

450 STRIKE AT ASHLAND, FIRM CLOSES DOORS

Pickets Surround Faultless Rubber Company Making Surgical Products.

HAS WAR ORDERS

Union President Declaring Strike Unauthorized, Cites 80 to 47 Cents Cut.

ASHLAND Approximately 450 employes of the Faultless Rubber company, manufacturing surgical rubber products for the armed forces, were out of work today following an "unauthorized walkout" of about 30 press room employes last night.

According to C D Hubler, president of the strikebound concern, the plant was closed this morning to all but officials and supervisors after a picket line was thrown around the factory a few minutes before day workers were to report at 8 a. m.

George Meller, secretary-treasurer, said conferences had been planned for the coming week-end to iron out differences over union contract renewals calling for wage increases, dues checkoff and a closed union shop. Following difficulties last fall these issues were referred to the war labor board but no finding has been reported.

Edward L. Wertz, president of the UERMWA local, said the strike action last night was "unauthorized and came after 300 press room employes had been notified by foremen their day work rates would be reduced from 80 to 47½ cents an hour."

Wertz said union officers urged the men to go back to work and appealed to the WLB only when their pleas were ignored. He blamed the company's labor practices for the walkout.

"It followed repeated attempts," Wertz said, "on the part of the company to bring about work stoppage in the hope it would jeopardize the union's case before the war labor board. This conforms perfectly with the company's anti-union record in the past."

HARD BUT SURE

FDR Tells American Troops Berlin Road Tough One.

BELFAST — (UP) — President Roosevelt told American troops in North Ireland in a message today that "the road to Berlin is long and hard but it is very sure."

Maj. Gen. Russell P. Hartle, who commanded the first American forces in the British isles, read the president's message at ceremonies commemorating the first anniversary of the arrival of U. S. troops.

"A year ago the first great convoy of American troops crossed the Atlantic and landed at North Ireland," the president said. "It came to buttress the grim defenses of this besieged fortress of freedom.

"Things have changed greatly in 12 months. We speak no longer of defense . . . We think of attack — determined, unrelenting, smashing attack. Our troops . . . have chafed at inaction. They will get action."

Drive In From Three Points In Rommel Pursuit

Follow Up American Attack From Other Side Of Pinched Axis Forces In Africa; Russians Annihilate Nazis Near Voronezh.

(By International News Service)

LONDON—The British Eighth army was reported today to have crossed the Tunisian frontier from Libya at three points as it continued pursuit of the battered Afrika Korps seeking to join Axis forces in northern Tunisia.

An Algiers dispatch via Madrid said that British Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's troops had made their way into Tunisia at one place along the coast and along two roads toward the towns of Cheggnet and El Auogi.

The advance, it was said, was being made in the direction of Medenine where the Axis maintains a landing field adjacent to the "Little Maginot" Mareth line, 65 miles inside the frontier.

The reported crossing of the border by the British vanguard followed an assault by American forces on the town of Maknassy, in central Tunisia 50 miles east of Gafsa, in answer to a German challenge to "come out and fight."

Replying immediately to the invitation dropped from the air by the Germans, the Americans raided Maknassy and seized 80 prisoners.

The German-operated Paris radio meanwhile announced that Nazi military circles forecast an attack against the port of Gaves in southeast Tunisia by American troops reportedly moving up north of Tebessa, 10 miles inside Algeria from the boundary of central Tunisia.

Precautions against Allied assaults to thrust eastward and cut the coastal road have been taken for some time by Axis forces in eastern Tunisia.

The Germans and Italians have labored repeatedly to keep the coastal passage open so that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's forces retiring from Libya may form a junction with Axis troops guarding Tunis and Bizerte.

Observers viewed the Paris radio report as an Axis attempt to ferret out information on possible Allied plans to prevent Rommel from linking forces with the Germans and Italians to the north. A note of Axis anxiety also was seen in the announcement.

Previously the Paris radio put out an entirely unconfirmed report stating that the Germans had frustrated an attempt by British Commando units to land from the sea near the western border of Libya beyond the port of Zuara to cut off a portion of Rommel's withdrawing forces.

Allied headquarters in North Africa disclosed in an official communique that the advance of Ger-

SPREAD: Allies Continue To Rain Havoc On Japs From Air

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(AP)—American forces have consolidated positions in Kokumbona, Japanese headquarters on Guadalcanal, and control the village and beach after killing 293 enemy troops, the navy reported today.

(By Associated Press)

Striking by night and day, Allied warplanes were officially credited today with raining havoc on Japanese shipping, airdromes and motor transports in Burma and the South seas, with more than 15 tons of bombs unloaded on the enemy base at Rabaul in a single phase of the offensive.

Rabaul is the big enemy stronghold in New Britain, a major source of supply and reinforcement for Japanese troops in northeast New Guinea and in the Solomons.

Dispatches said Allied night bombers, darting in low despite intense anti-aircraft fire, blasted a 2,000-ton vessel believed to be a munitions ship and set towering flames that lighted the entire Rabaul harbor area.

Another medium-sized Japanese ship was bombed at a harbor wharf and left with a gaping hole in its side.

Other Allied planes dropped 1,000-pound bombs on the Japanese base at Lae, New Guinea, inflicting heavy damage, and strafed targets at Salamaua, Finschhafen and Gasmata.

Japanese raiders countered with small attacks on Allied airdromes

CHANGE: Year In M'Arthur's Life Develops Sharp Contrast

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—In contrast to the hopeless rearguard fight he was directing on Bataan a year ago, Gen. Douglas MacArthur today marks his 63rd birthday with a string of recent victories behind him as the United Nations forces under his command continue to strike offensively against the Japs in the southwest Pacific.

In the 10 months since MacArthur moved from the Philippines to Australia to asume supreme command of United Nations forces, the "Hero of Bataan" has welded a formidable fighting force which not only checked Japan's headlong invasion drive but succeeded in smashing enemy troops of Papua, New Guinea.

Just how far MacArthur has traveled on the road to victory during the past year is indicated by the following comparison:

On Jan. 26, 1942, his 62nd birthday, the American-Filipino forces in the Philippines were retreating down Bataan peninsula for their last stand on the mainland, with

MRS. CROPPER DISCUSSES "THE THEATER IN OHIO"

Victorian Club Members Hear Interesting Program at Meeting Monday at Women's Club: Mrs. R. E. Hutchison Hostess.

THE THEATER in Ohio was discussed in a most interesting manner Monday when Mrs. Paul F. Cropper was guest speaker at the regular luncheon meeting for members of the Victorian club at the Women's Club. The affair was a 1 o'clock luncheon, with Mrs. R. E. Hutchison presiding as hostess.

Mrs. Cropper told of the struggle of the theater during the years 1830 to 1865 in the northwest territory, citing Cincinnati as the center of the theatrical world. She described plays of that era as being the types which would appeal most to pioneer people, saying that "art in the theater reflected the life of the period."

"People loved long performances at that time," she said, "and usually two plays were given at each performance. The bill usually included a Shakespearian tragedy and a farce."

Mrs. Cropper described the conduct of theater audiences of that day as being anything but commendable, and told that rowdies often waited outside the stagedoor and pelted the actors with rocks, creating a need for police to guard the doorways.

The appearance of the "showboat," or "floating palace," found great favor with theater patrons who eagerly awaited the sound of the caliope playing as the boat moved up the river. This eventually led to the black-face minstrel productions.

The development period of the theater was recorded during the years 1875 to 1910, during which time the syndicate system was inaugurated in the theater, and David Belasco, Erlanger and Frohman were leading names behind the scenes. Among the immortal names receiving top billing in those days were Otis Skinner, Julia Marlows and Ethel Barrymore. It was during this period that New York was the center of all theatrical productions, and many sections of the country resented the dictatorial powers which the New York producers were wielding. However, it was an Ohioan, Max Anderson, who finally succeeded in dissolving the syndicate set-up, Mrs. Cropper said.

The rise of the little theater was one of the highlights of the present status of the theater which Mrs. Cropper traced from 1914 to the present.

"The rise of the little theater and contributory theaters had liberated the stage and the whole theater of commercialism," she said. "Now the theater isn't thought of as an escape, but is a part of the entertainment world, particularly with schools and colleges educating people to the value of the stage."

The contributory theaters and dramatic societies in the colleges and high schools had their inception through the efforts of a man named Baker, who was the father of stage art in the educational world, she said. Ohio never led in this field, Mrs. Cropper told the group. She particularly praised the work of the Cleveland Playhouse, which is recognized as one of the finest organizations in the state, of which there are 50. She explained that Western Reserve university is working along with the Playhouse, and since 1931 has offered courses in everything that relates to the theater, and sends its most talented students to the Playhouse for field work.

The next meeting of the club will be Feb. 8, with Mrs. Lester Redding as hostess. Mrs. William Layton will give a book review as the program.

Husband Disgusted With Life

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Dear Miss Fairfax:

We've been married only seven months and my husband is already disgusted with married life. So he tells me but what I can't understand is that he says he loves me. Those two statements don't agree. How can a man say he loves his his wife and then pretend to be bored with marriage?

My husband never did run around a lot, and he still doesn't like to go much. But every now and then he gets snappy, and says he wishes he'd never married. That hurts me because I love him very much and there isn't anything I wouldn't do for him.

Please tell me what to do when he gets like that. I don't want to argue with him at such times, because he says I'm nagging.

S. M.

I agree with you that a husband who insists he loves his wife and yet wants to break his marriage ties and claims he's bored is inconsistent. Perhaps there is something in your conduct as a wife that gets on his nerves. Are you possessive? Do you think he belongs solely to you?

Are you sweetly cloying? Do you hang on him, kiss him when he doesn't want to be kissed, pet him when he wants to read his newspaper? To pet a man when his thoughts are a thousand miles away is not wise. Are you a good cook and housekeeper, or does he have to go to a restaurant when he wants a good meal? If your conscience doesn't answer guilty to any of these things, try a good stiff dose of indifference to him.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Im a very lonely girl of 20 years of age who would like to have friends. I have been more or less held down, because while in school the friends I made my mother didn't approve of, so I dropped them and now I have no friends at all. She wants me to have friends but finds something wrong with them so I don't know what to do.

I want to make social contacts and learn to dance and do the things other girls do. I thought of joining the Y. W. C. A. and entering some of their classes, to overcome my bashfulness. I didn't consult my mother—do you think this would be a good idea?

Your idea of joining the Y. W. C. A. is excellent. Please stick to it and enroll in one of their dancing classes. Why not take up Red Cross work, which is invaluable at this particular time? A good many mothers have the same attitude to their daughters' friends. They want their girls to be popular and yet they object to everyone. It's then up to the daughters to be tactful and ask their mothers in what particular these friends have offended. Frequently the objecting parents has no charges to bring out but a general distrust of all young people. This attitude on the part of a parent is highly unforunate for any girl.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

While waiting for a train in a terminal, a young soldier helped me with my two small children, and assisted us all on the train. I appreciated it very much and we conversed until he got off. I learned his name and that he is in the Army Air Corps, but didn't get his address.

How can I find out where he is stationed, so that I may send him a little gift in appreciation of what he did for me?

(Mrs.) P. A. G.

High School And Homes Train Youth

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH.D.

Yesterday we said that parents would like the high school to try harder now to help our boys soon to enter the armed forces to toughen up physically, and get practice in obedience, promptness, dependability and habits of self-discipline and hard work.

We observed that many youth are giving up the struggle to learn at school and that some are quitting school. We have noted that many of these youths have grown discouraged because of constant failure and that this failure often results fro inability to read their school textbooks easily. We suggested that many of them could be saved and kept in school till called into the armed forces, if ways were found to help them improve their reading skills and, consequently, win more success at their school work that in order to be able to work hard a student must see that he can achieve success.

Wholesome Habits.

We parents also wish the school would help us to lead these boys to strive harder to discipline themselves in wholesome ideals and habits. We wish the school would try harder than ever to lead these youths to avoid alcoholic liquor; especially that those who have not begun to drink it would resolve to avoid it.

We parents wish the high school would discuss with these youths the folly of gambling and remind them that they will have more temptation after leaving home. Some mathematics teachers have been able to make the argument against gambling very persuasive. Of course, we parents might do much to keep our children from gambling were they to know we don't gamble ourselves. One good deterrent to gambling is to have a plan of budgeting, and saving and investing in war savings. It would be helpful if the high school would lead these youths to plan to take out the maximum of war risks insurance which will be deducted from their pay check.

Prepare For Future.

We parents wish those high school teachers who have a great hold on our boys—and many of them do—would appeal to the lads to try to keep straight in relation to the opposite sex and look forward to the time when they will return and marry and have a fine family of their own.

We parents wish that these teachers who have religious interests would encourage our boys to keep on going to religious services in the armed forces, taking their religion with them wherever they go as their best armour. We wish all teachers in the high schools would urge these youths while in the armed forces to get in close touch with the chaplain and go to him for all sorts of personal advice. Let us parents try to work skillfully in these directions, too.

Solving Parent Problems.

Q. My daughter's birthday comes two days late for her to enter school. I don't want her to be half a year behind her playmates. Please tell me how I can teach her so she would be put in the second half of the first year when she enters school.

A. Let your child grow up. Read to her and encourage her to make things and have outdoor and indoor fun with other children her age. But do not try to teach her school work at home with a view to helping her skip a half grade.

Pitfalls of Love

(A sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

This time I did not resent my father reading my "telltale face." I was glad that I could plunge at once into my story.

"Where is Georges?" I asked first.

"Sound asleep in your bedroom," my father answered, "waiting for the make-up artist Underwood promised to send over. It's about time for the man to get here, too."

"Then I must hurry with my story." I said. "But I'd like to be sure Georges won't come in here. This is for your ears alone."

"That is easily managed," he said, and locked the bedroom door.

"Georges would knock on this door anyway," he said, "and if the make-up man comes before you finish talking to me, I'll take him in and lock the door again. Now, tell me what's troubling you."

"First," I said earnestly, "please tell me this: Is it vital to your plans that Steve Redfield keep his role a few days longer?"

Important to Spencer.

"Yes, it is," he said, "perhaps longer than that. Why?"

"Because," I said, "Philip Veritzen is determined to dismiss him from the cast at once. He is not doing it today, for Redfield will not appear tonight anyway, but Veritzen said he never must appear in his production again."

"He assured me that he would do as I asked in this matter," my father said slowly. "Something drastic must have happened to make him break his word."

"Something pretty bad happened," I said, and plunged forthwith into an account of the performance staged by Redfield and Noel.

My father made no comment until I had finished telling of that and of Philip Veritzen's decision when he heard it.

"I cannot blame him," my father said. "Redfield's conduct is unforgivable, yet I cannot have him taken away from his present position for a little time. Let me think!"

While his fingers tapped a staccato measure on the arm of his chair, I leaned back and relaxed with the consoling knowledge that I had done everything I could, and that the responsibility was no longer mine.

In a few minutes my father looked at me and said:

"Will you please repeat the exact words Veritzen used when announcing his decision?"

"He said," I repeated slowly, "'This makes me determined on one thing. Redfield must not appear on the stage with Mary again. I shall give him his dismissal today; no, tomorrow.' Then he asked me if I thought Redfield was safe until tomorrow, and I assured him he was, not only because Redfield seemed satisfied with my assurance that he would be permitted to keep his job, but also because you would have Redfield effectually trailed. I am afraid I took a liberty in promising that."

New Problem to Solve.

"What else could you have done?" my father asked irritably. "Of course I will carry out your plan. Now let me check on this again. Veritzen said: 'Redfield must not appear on the stage with Mary again.' Is that right?"

"Those were his exact words," I said.

"That gives me a loophole," he said musingly, "and will permit Veritzen to keep his word to himself without breaking it to me."

I am afraid I goggled at him for an instant, and I regained composure only to be startled afresh when he asked:

"Can you stage an accident which will keep Mary from the theater after tonight, until I decide that she can safely go back again?"

"The Authority on Authorities"

YOU CAN'T GOVERN IT

It is all well and good for you to take credit for a well-played hand when you score a doubtful contract by handling each problem correctly. But many a time all the skill in the world would not avail you unless you also had some good fortune in matters over which you have no control, such as the opening lead. Don't even be too quick to blame your opponents for giving you your contract, as the result may have depended upon some factor which was completely hidden from their view and over which they had no control. In brief, try to be a bit modest about your successes.

Where South was declarer at 3 No Trumps on this deal in a team match, he made his contract. West led the heart 5 to the A, the club A was taken and, when it dropped the 10, South decided to play West for now a singleton K, so that it had to go on the 4 to the 6 and 5. The heart 4 was taken by the K and the club 9 finessed, the club Q scored and then South led the diamond 6 to the Q and A. East returned the diamond J to the K, and then the spade 2 was led toward the K. West came in with the A and sent the diamond 7 to his partner's 10. But the spade K, diamond 9 and heart Q were now good for the three tricks needed by South.

At the other table, East led the spade 3 the A winning, the J getting the next trick and the K the third. The club A, the 7 to the 8, 5 and K followed, the diamond 7 was led to the A and the spade 6 was the setting trick.

North at Table 1 was inclined to crow because he made his contract. But wasn't he merely lucky in that, when West was the leader, his logical appearing lead was a suit which the declarer stopped three times, whereas, when East led, his sound lead was one which was stopped only once?

THEATERS

Pirate Thriller.

The days when pirates plied the high seas for gold and other booty are depicted in "The Black Swan," film adaptation of Rafael Sabatini's novel by the same name, showing at the Ohio. Produced in technicolor the picture presents a colorful tapestry for the eye along with thrilling action for excitement. Tyrone Power is starred as a sea captain who sets out to rid the seas of piracy. Laird Cregar and Maureen O'Hara, along with Thomas Mitchell and Anthony Quinn, top the supporting cast.

Tropical Romance.

Romance in the South Seas climaxes the adventure of a London stockbroker who forsook convention and his family to follow his bent for painting in Somerset Maugham's powerful drama, "The Moon and Sixpence," showing at the Madison. George Sanders has the role of the artist and the supporting cast is headed by Elena Verdugo, in the role of the native beauty who claims the artist's interest in the South Seas. Herbert Marshall, Doris Dudley and Eric Blore. Chester Morris and Richard Arlen are featured in the second picture, "Wrecking Crew."

Aerial Drama.

American, British and Chinese cadets take to the air in the Ritz attraction, "Thunder Birds," co-starring Preston Foster and John Sutton. Some of the action was filmed at Arizona's noted Thunderbird and Falcon flying fields and the story deals with the attempts of a flying instructor, played by Foster, to make an airman out of an English cadet. Off duty both men vie for the attention of Gene Tierney. Roy Rogers' picture, "King of the Cowboys," is the second attraction.

Starlet Featured.

"Johnny Doughboy," a first run feature, starring Jane Withers, headlines the bill at the Park. Henry Wilcoxon and Patrick Brook are also featured. "The Bowery at Midnight," with Bela Lugosa is the co-feature. Tom Neal, Lew Kelly and Vince Barnett are in the cast.

CONSCIENCE SMITES HER

SPARKS, Nev.—(U.P.)—The city council has duly accepted and entered in the city's accounts the sum of "two bits" — conscience money returned by a young girl who gave her age for entrance to the swimming pool as 16 when in reality she was 18. Later she repented of the deceit.

Tells How to Treat Your Dandruff

By MME. QUI VIVE

Dandruff, like baldness, is a beauty curse that is common among men, seldom inflicted upon women. When a woman finds dead skin scales scattered over her scalp she does something about it. No fastidious woman will tolerate dandruff.

One reason why women are free of baldness, fairly free of dandruff, is their fussiness about shampoos. A sign of soap scum on the comb or brush and away they fly to another beauty shop. They give their hirsute halos good care, know that a clean scalp is the first necessity.

Any man will tell you that he washes his hair frequently. How does he do it? He rubs the bar of soap over his noble dome, turns on the shower. If the water is cold, the soap suds are not removed. Every woman realizes that the hair should have two or three rousing latherings, as many rinsings. The first application of soap does not lather freely. It takes out surface dust. The second application gets down to bras tacks, completes the job. One is dealing with a combination of dirt and oil, and that does not give way quickly.

If a man uses an oily dressing on his hair it interferes with good results when the shampoo is speedy and casual.

A few years ago it was discovered that dandruff is a parasitic product, a fungus growth, much like yeast. It is contagious. Hence the need of being fastidious about combs and brushes. Each member of the family should have his or her own toilet articles, never borrow. Grownups need not be warned, but children are given to snatching up daddy's toilet articles and using them. If Daddy is harboring dandruff, the small borrowers are likely to grow their own.

Combs and brushes of the afflicted one must be kept scrupulously clean. The scalp should be frictioned with hot mineral oil at least once a week, a rousing shampoo should follow next morning. To have oil remain on the scalp for only a few hours is not to get full benefit from the treatment.

Soap must be liquid. Place a small bar in a quart mason jar, fill with hot water, let stand for three days before using. Pour off some of the clear top liquid, add hot water, use with plenty of elbow grease.

Before the shampoo, have a vigorous brushing, sending the bristles onto the scalp, rolling the brush as it descends through the strands.

Many a robust topcrest survives the presence of dandruff. Even so, these flakelike deposits are perfect stamping grounds for infections.

CHAPTER XII

Lieutenant Phillip Strange came ome from France ahead of his egiment, as a casual on a transort that arrived in Boston haror in the morning of a day early March of that triumphant pring. Due notification of his oming had preceded him, of ourse; Rosalie had been long prewarned, and she should have een ready. Not only had she had cable from him when he sailed, leven days before—she had had nany prior communications leadg up to that. His letters had een full of his attempts to get ome early. Almost ever since e Armistice, he had been pulling ires, exerting influence—moving eaven and earth, he kept assurg her from France—and when e saw the final cable in its ealed white envelope she knew s message. "Sailing Today. Due oston Wednesday week. S. S. rantic Darling Darling."

It was Tuesday now. It was toorrow now that he was due—morrow in the very early mornig. There was a ticket on her essing table that entitled her passage down the harbor on e flag-draped cutter called the other's Boat, to meet the transort. They had taken it for grant that she wanted to do that—l wives and sweethearts did at, when they could. "Guess hat I have for you," her father d said happily, bringing the ket home. She didn't know hat she herself had said. The right thing, doubtless, in the right ecstatic voice.

Tuesday was a long day, with the clock hands barely moving. It was a black day, stormy even in the world outside. She stayed at home till twilight, alone in her room most of the time—pretending to be sleeping later than she did that morning, and retiring again after lunch, allegedly to rest again. "Yes, do," her mother said. "You look quite tired—it's the excitement." Everyone talked like that, everyone treated her as if this were another wedding day, or day before. Romance and rejoicing, tender solicitude and sentimental gaiety pervaded the whole household — even the servants were a little daft with it, beaming and fluttering. Rosalie's favorite aunt and uncle came for lunch, in festive spirit; and champagne was served, and smiling toasts were sipped, and little joking things were said. It was agreed that Phil was probably off Mitchell's Island at this moment . . .

Back in her room when that was over, with the door shut and herself leaning limp against it for a grateful instant after she came in, Rosalie looked to see what time it was by now. Not three o'clock yet. Quarter of Bailey had left New York at one; he wasn't even at New Haven yet. Suppose he hadn't left, she thought; suppose he'd missed the train; suppose something had happened to prevent his coming, after all . . . Oh, but no, don't worry, don't imagine things. He would be here. He knew how much she needed him, this day before tomorrow. She could depend on him, whatever happened.

She dressed all afternoon. It can be done, when there is nothing else to do. The thing is to prolong the preparations, to lay out the costume, piece by piece, to set the stage, and not really to start until you have to. Indecision as to what you actually do want to wear is helpful, and a sudden complete change of mind about it at the end, after you get it all assembled and arranged, is better still. She worked on schedule, watching the clock, running a slow race with the train. Even her bath was timed by the remembered time-table.

She came downstairs at half past five, wearing a favorite dress of Bailey's, her mink coat, and a becoming new spring hat. She was pulling on one glove as she descended, and from the little finger of the other hand, her car keys swung on a looped chain. The house was quiet now; no voices sounded in the rooms that opened off the first-floor hall, and she called, "Mother?" tentatively, into space.

"I'm going now," she added, as her mother answered from the living-room.

"So early?" Mrs. Hastings said, appearing hurriedly. "But it's only five thirty!"

"I know. I told Bee I'd come early."

Mrs. Hastings was a small, plump woman, softly plump, but rigidly compressed into conventional good shape. She stood confronting Rosalie now, wearing the anxious and adoring look that was inevitable with her in the circumstances. She was a helpless mother, piteous with love and awe and admiration and concern for this her only, her exquisite, her incomparable child. Placid in all other ways, almost phlegmatic towards the world in general, Mrs. Hastings was parentally a nervous wreck, and always had been. What made this fact remarkable was that she rarely knew what cause she had. She believed everything Rosalie told her, and heard very little else.

"Is Bee giving a party, dear. Or what is it? I didn't quite understand."

"Not exactly a party. She's just having some people in. I suppose it's a kind of buffet supper or something."

Mrs. Hastings hesitated, looking now not only anxious but a shade perplexed. "Darling," she said, "really, are you sure you want to go out at all this evening? Your last evening alone? Wouldn't you rather just stay here quietly, with your father and me?"

"Of course I'd rather," Rosalie said, "But I promised Bee—on, ages ago."

"But Bee would understand Anyone would understand. I really think it would seem much more suitable. Really I do."

"Don't fuss, now, Mother." Rosalie said gently. "I'm only going because it helps to make the time pass faster, don't you see that?"

Mrs. Hastings saw that. Her face brightened; her head nodded. Yes, of course, dear. Only natural. And surely everyone would see that. She smiled, and kissed her daughter tenderly, and let her go.

Rosalie drove her own car to the Back Bay station, where she parked it and got out, and went downstairs to wait at the far end of the long platform. Four times before, in the six weeks since Bailey left Camp Devens and the army for New York and Wall Street, she had met him at this station, even at this same train. Usually she waited for him in the car, since that seemed safer. This time she was too eager to care greatly whether or not she was seen by anyone who might recognize her. It would not matter long, after tomorrow, anyway. Everyone would know about them soon.

Still, she was rather wary, out of habit. There were a dozen other people waiting on the platform. She refrained from walking up and down, but stood obscurely in a shadowed spot, apart from all of them. She had not long to wait.

The locomotive passed her like a monstrous bullet, shooting on; the platform quaked under her feet, and the quick swirling rush of wind came up around her, and she squeezed her eyelids shut against the dust.

The long train slowed and stopped. Everybody on the platform moved except herself. The first passenger out of the third car down was Bailey in a big fur coat — not looking like himself, still looking strange as a civilian. I never will get used to it, she thought, a little sadly. But this was just a flash across her mind, this disappointment. He was still Bailey. He was still magnificent, and hers.

She walked to meet him, remembering not to run, not to cry out. Only their eyes rejoiced, in the composure of their faces. They came together; they shook hands and smiled; they said, "Hello, how are you?" both at once, and Rosalie said, "No luggage?" and Bailey said "Toothbrush and comb. I'm going to have to take the midnight back." and Rosalie said with a little break in her voice, "I'm glad you came . . ." and then she said matter-of-factly again, "I've got the car here."

They drove to the country There was the briefest possible discussion about it at the start, in which the things they did not say were the important things. There was their real reunion, even before that. When they had shut themselves into the car, parked up the street beyond the station, Bailey in the driver's seat did not immediately start the motor or turn on the lights—he said instead, "Here's where I kiss my girl," and this he did. They clung together for as long as Rosalie dared. "We mustn't, here," she murmured once or twice, but without listening to herself, and without obeying. "Darling," she said, "Oh, darling, I'm so glad you came—I couldn't have stood it . . ."

"Neither could I."

"I couldn't have lived through it," Rosalie said desolately. "Oh, Bailey, I dread it so . . ."

"I know, my sweet. I know. I'm so terribly sorry . . ."

All their sentences ended without ending. They kissed again they said, "I love you—I love you terribly . . ." and Bailey's arms around her had a kind of fierce possessiveness. "I know you do." Rosalie sighed, after a moment. "And that's all that matters. That makes me not even afraid—when I remember that."

"Never forget it."

Champ Jaloppy Wrecking Crew Creates Scrap

Here's the prize-winning jaloppy wrecking crew of Detroit. They are shown reducing a 1902 Cadillac into a pile of scrap in 21 minutes 38 seconds. The contest was conducted by the Detroit Times. The jaloppies were collected by school children and patriotic-minded adults in a city-wide scrap drive.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—(AP)—For 12 years a Knoxville man has been working early and late that he might perspire.

Suffering a peculiar ailment arising from adhesions, C. A. Stair must labor long hours daily so that perspiration may relieve his suffering and enable him to live. During the summer, he works in his flower garden. When winter comes he goes to his basement and shovels coal from the full bin to an empty one, repeating the process until spring.

Blind, Armless He Writes Book Despite Handicap

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa—(AP)—This is the story of a man of courage who, wrecked physically by the war, refused to remain a helpless cripple.

Ronald Vincent, 21, was a gunner with the British army in the Western desert. One day an Italian hand grenade exploded nearby. Vincent lost both arms and his sight.

Discharged from the hospital, Vincent, equipped with artificial arms, enrolled in a Capetown training school. A South African firm devised a typewriter with a keyboard of perforated metal.

With small wooden pegs attached to his artificial wrists, Vincent, after memorizing the keyboard, punched out the letters by inserting the pegs in the proper holes. After many tedious weeks of study and practice he became an excellent typist.

He has just finished his first detective thriller—a story of spies at work in Brazil. Now he is enroute to England for further study.

Your Federal Income Tax

NO. 20: INTEREST INCOME

Interest income is entered in the return Form 1040 as items 3 to 5 Interest is variously taxable some interest being wholly tax exempt and some partly tax exempt Wholly tax-exempt interest includes interest on (a) obligations of a State, Territory, or political subdivision thereof, or of the District of Columbuia, or United States possessions; (b) obligations issued prior to March 1, 1941, under the Federal Farm Loan Act, or amendment to the Act, (3) obligations of the United States issued on or before Sept 1, 1917 and (d) Treasury notes Treasury bills and Treasury certificates of indebtedness issued prior to March 1 1941 Although such interest is tax exempt the amount of such obligations held by the taxpayer, as well as the amount of interest received or accrued during the year must be shown in the return (in Schedule A).

Certain other interest is partially tax exempt Interest on United Savings bonds and Treasury bonds issued prior to March 1, 1941, is of this class. Interest on such bonds is exempt from normal tax, and on holdings of such bonds up to $5 000 principal amount is exempt from surtax also that is interest on such bonds held in excess of $5,000 principal amount must be included in surtax net income from computation of surtax

Interest on obligations issued on or after March 1 1941, by the United States or any agency or instrumentality of the United States is subject to both normal tax and surtax However in the case of obligations issued at a discount, for example, was savings bonds where income is reported on the cash basis, the interest may be reported each year as accrued (shown in a table on the bonds as the increase in the redemption value) or it may be deferred until the bonds come due, when it may all be included as income in that year. (Once a taxpayer has elected to accrue the discount, he can not change to the other method)

On certain bonds with a "tax free covenant" the corporation issuing the bonds pays part of the income tax on such bond interest (2 per cent of the total interest earned by the bond). A person receiving interest on such bonds is entitled to a credit of the amount of income tax paid by the corporation in computing his tax due. The amount of such credt for tax paid at the source is entered in item 31 of the return Form 1040.

Interest on coupon bonds is considered received when the coupon becomes due and payable, irrespective of when the taxpayer cashes or presents the coupon for payment (unless, of course, the issuer of the bonds is in default and no funds are available to meet the interest). Interest on savings and deposit accounts is considered as received when it has been credited to the account of the taxpayer, subject to his withdrawal, irrespective of whether he withdraws it or not Other interest is considered as received when paid or made available to the holder of the obligation.

Sometimes, notes are sold at a discount and redeemed at the face amount. While such discount is frequently considered interest in the commercial sense, for tax purposes it represents a gain from sale or exchange of property and is not reported as interest, but as a gain under item 8

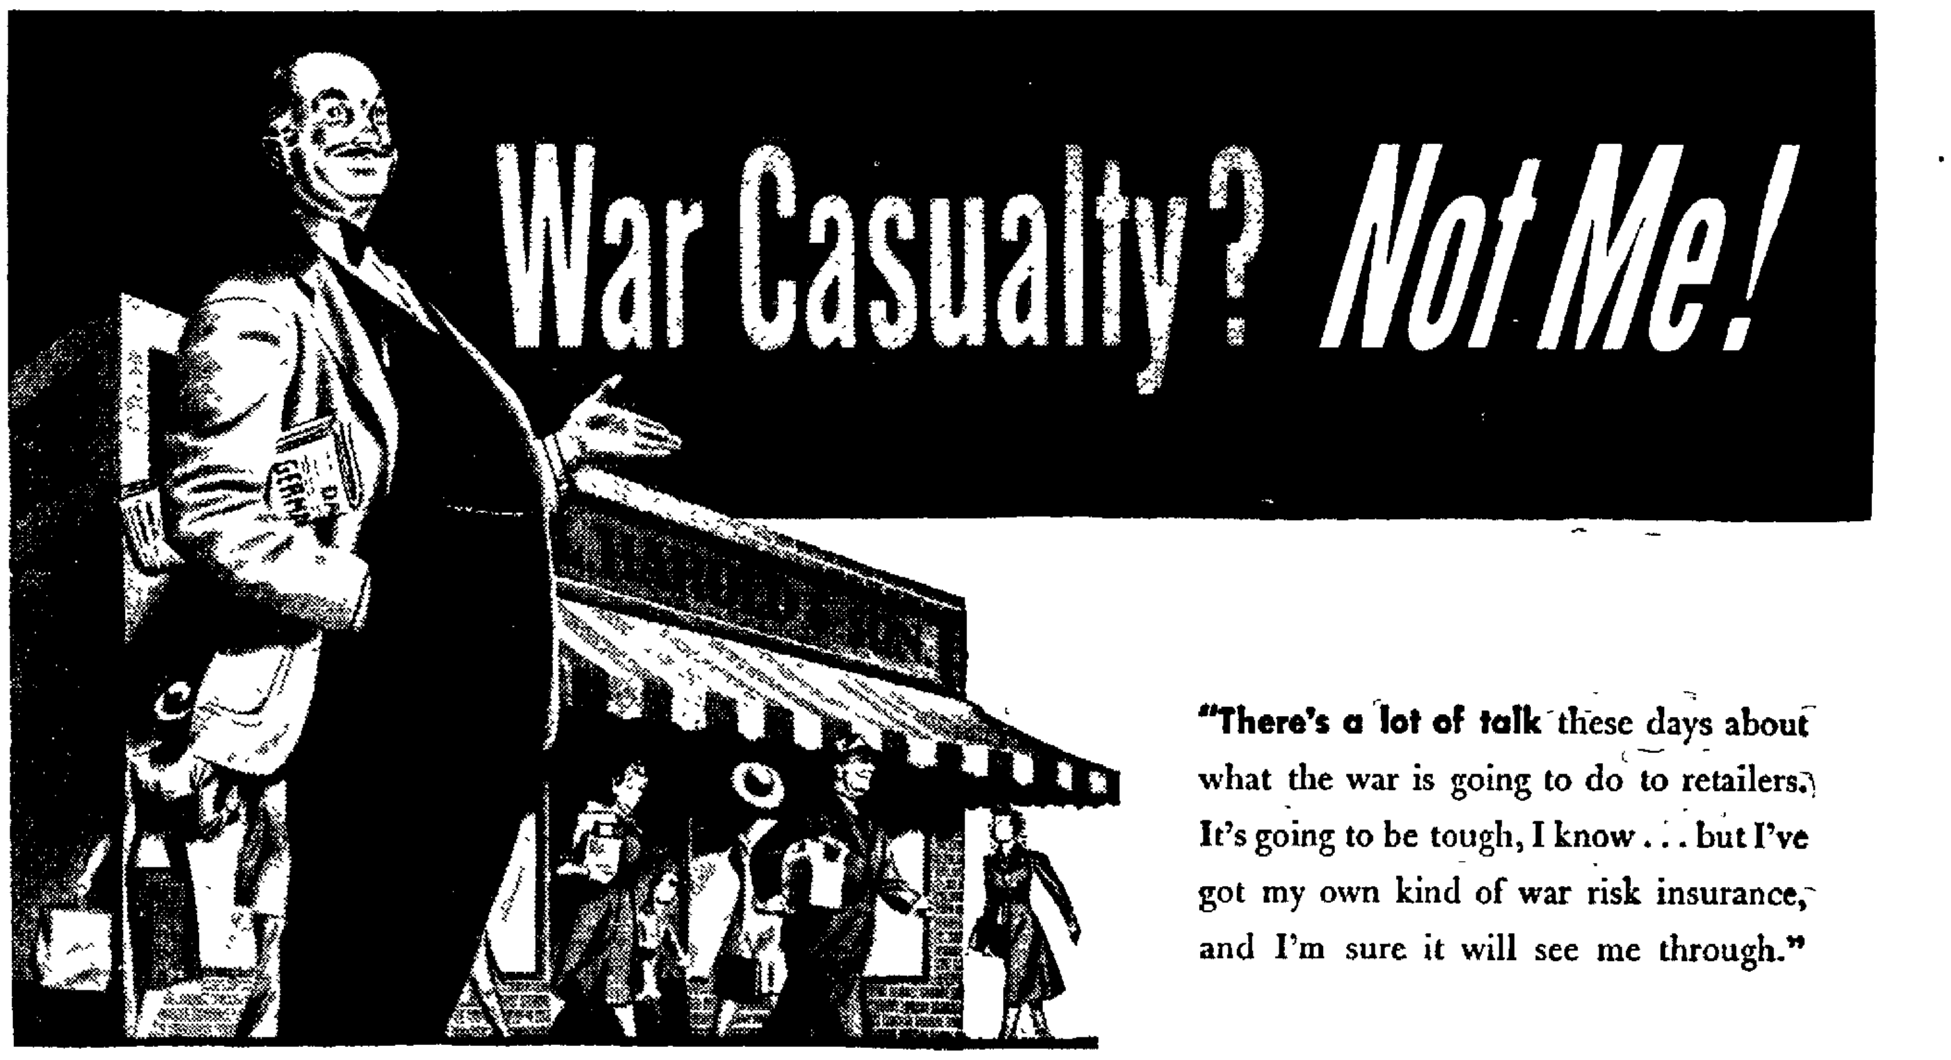
In Time of War--- Cooperate!



War Casualty? Not Me!

"There's a lot of talk these days about what the war is going to do to retailers. It's going to be tough, I know . . . but I've got my own kind of war risk insurance, and I'm sure it will see me through."

1. "Now, even more than in normal times, people want the best they can get for their money. So I make it a point to feature the well-known advertised brands . . . especially the ones advertised right here in our local newspapers."

2. "When a product's scarce, I try to make sure my customers know exactly why. Of course, that's a lot easier when the manufacturer tells the story in newspaper ads. I often tear out such ads myself and display them here in the store."

3. "When items disappear, I don't just sit around biting my nails, wondering what to do. I get busy, stock new items . . . and whenever I learn that a new product is advertised in newspapers in my town, I make it a 'must' to get it."

4. "Believe me, it's already paying out, too. With enough satisfied customers, a merchant can weather a lot of storms. And the best way I know to keep 'em satisfied is to give 'em the products they all read about in the ads in our local papers."

War is teaching retailers everywhere a lot about advertising that they've never realized before. More and more, smart retailers are reaping benefits from the newspapes advertising support they get from manufacturers . . . benefits that are multiplied when retailers, in turn, back up newspaper-advertised products.

150 Teams Enter Moose State Bowling Tournament

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

L. J. Smith, superintendent of Massillon schools, says it ain't so—that that story circulating around last Saturday to the effect that he was seeking draft deferment for Tiger gridder Bob Graber and bucketballer Joe Harrison was a base canard.

It was bruited about that Smith was making a last-minute appeal to have their induction postponed.

Here is Smith's side of the story:

"I had no grounds whatsoever on which to base such action. Massillon high school already has sent more than 30 boys, including Vern Weisgarber and Barney Wallace, football players, to the army, and Harrison and Graber were just as eligible for service as any of the others.

"Naturally we like our athletics, but at no time will we let them sway us into asking deferments for boys who are not entitled to them.

"After all, Uncle Sam is the fellow who needs victories now, and we're doing everything possible to help him with them."

All the news that came out of Sunday's meeting of Ohio scholastic and college track coaches in Columbus had to do with plans for a state college track meet this coming spring.

Hardly a word was there about the high school coaches who attended the session.

"Yes," says Mansfield high school Coach Harry Mehock, "and that's the way it was at the meeting. The college coaches hogged the floor and all the conversation. Looks like the high school mentors will have to have a separate caucus at the next session."

But there was something of interest in the meeting for the overlooked high school coaches.

They were informed by state high school Athletic Commissioner H. R. (that's Horace) Townsend, that district and state track meets probably will be held as usual next spring, but it is not likely that tennis and golf tourneys will be staged, and the state high school baseball tournament is still in the question stage.

"It's Mansfield's turn to put on the district track meet, and we're out to get it," Mehock announced.

Getting home a day late from the Columbus meeting, Mehock gave Mrs. M. the best alibi yet concocted by a tardy husband. "I was caught by the 72-hour week for gasoline stations," Mehock blandly explained. "The filling stations were closed, and I was out of gas."

Stage Set For Cage Thriller

Unbeaten Steubenville, East Liverpool Meet.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS — (AP) — The high school basketball spotlight swings this week to the eastern Ohio valley, as Martins Ferry's 1941 state class A champions and Steubenville's Big Red clash on the latter's court Friday night to determine which shall roll on undefeated.

Each has won nine straight, and the stage is set for a real classic. Last week Steubenville shattered the 31-game winning streak East Liverpool had piled up on its own floor, while Martins Ferry is the only club to defeat Barnesville, the top-flight team coached by Frank Sowecke, who last year piloted Somerset to the class B championship.

Last year the Big Red met the Ferrians three times, handing them two of their three setbacks, the first defeat blasting a 33-game winning streak for the 1941 champions, and the second knocking them out of the district title for 1942. Ferry, boasting a 60-point-per game offense, is out for revenge.

Another top-notch encounter is scheduled tonight at Canton as the mighty McKinleys, winners of seven straight, tangle with Lehman, 1942 state semi-finalist which has won seven of eight.

Last week's contests on the state-wide front were filled with thrills, upsets and scintillating individual performances. When the smoke had cleared away, these clubs were still among the undefeated:

Class A: 10—North Canton; 9—Wadsworth, Martins Ferry and Steubenville; 8—Boardman, Defiance and Bexley; 7—Youngstown South, Canton McKinley and Western Reserve academy.

Class B: 15—Plain City; 11—Ottoville; 10—Yellow Springs Bryan; 9—Twinsburg, Creston, Utica and Bluffton; 5—Arlington.

Records of other leading class A squads included: 11-1—Newark; 9-1—Cincinnati Purcell; 8-1—Dayton Wilbur Wright; 7-1—Canton Lehman and Ashland; 6-1—Van Wert; 9-2—Xenia Central (defending class A champion); 8-2—Akron North and Portsmouth Central Catholic; 7-2—Akron Central.

Near the peak in class B were: 12-1—Yorkville; 11-1—St. Henry; 10-1—Newark St. Francis and East Conneaut Rowe; 9-1—Dalton and Waynesburg; 8-1—Canton St. John, North Lima and Fredericktown.

Of the once-beaten squads, Cincinnati Purcell and North Lima suffered their first setbacks last week, while Portsmouth Central Catholic, winner of the Columbus diocesan tournament last season, was dropped twice after winning eight straight.

D. Gregory of Vinton Rural, with 271 points for 13 games, tops the individual scoring list, 52 points against Washington Township shoving him far ahead. Plainville has a couple of point-making "twins" in George Edwards (he wears No. 7) and Bill Bachman (he wears No. 11), each having counted 231 points in 15 contests.

Dick Wehr of Barnesville, with 221 in 10 tilts, leads the high-average group with a mark of 22.1, while Akron Central's Hank Vaughn, who counted 30 in last week's 43-30 win over Akron South, tops the larger schools with 182 in nine games for a 20.2 average.

Other high scorers are: 13 games—Harold Musser, Doylestown, 180; Elmo Faiella, Columbus Central, 137; 12 games—Ron Tucker, Centerburg, 187, and Paul Lammers, St. Henry, 186; 11 games—Jack Wilson, Xenia Central, 198, and Tommy Robinson, Gallipolis, 171; 10 games—Fred Hirsimaki, East Conneaut Rowe, 197, and High Cleary, Columbus Rosary, 136; nine games—Junior Coad, Utica, 189, and Eddie Sterling, Martins Ferry, 151; eight games—Ralph (Taxi) Shaffer, Fredericktown, 149, Darroll Seiple, Defiance, 142, and Dick Mulvaine, Marion Harding, 141.

Scioto and Highland counties have tossed out the usual six-day double-elimination county tournament plan, and will squeeze the title play into a three-day single "loss and out" program. Other counties are expected to follow suit as the state's 1150 clubs start down the tournament trail next month, gearing basketball to the stream-lined war-time schedule.

SHAUGHNESSY READY FOR PITTSBURGH JOB

COLLEGE PARK, Md.—(INS)—Clark D. Shaughnessy, resigned football coach at Maryland university, today was preparing to take over the coaching duties at the University of Pittsburgh.

Shaughnessy, whose resignation from Maryland becomes effective Feb. 1, said he closed negotiations with Pitt authorities over the week-end and was awaiting formal notice of his appointment to succeed Charles Bowser as gridiron mentor there.

Tygers Invade Jacket Nest

Travel To Mt. Vernon For Cage Tilt Tonight.

Mansfield High Tygers invade Mt. Vernon tonight, and the Hoffman Hoopsters have no idea what kind of a Yellow Jacket team they'll be running up against.

Coach Myron Prech's Jackets have shown great promise at times this season, and everything but promise at others, and no one knows before the game whether the Mt. Vernon cagers are going to be hot or cold.

Paul Snyder, Mansfield grid coach, saw Mt. Vernon defeated by Shelby, when the Jackets failed to score a single point for 17 minutes, and that performance hardly impressed the Tyger scout.

But last Saturday night the Jackets were edged only 37-34 by a highly favored Marion Harding quintet, and were beaten then only because Dick Mulvaine, N.C.O. league leading scorer, racked up 21 points against them.

And if Bill Wright, Jacket captain, had had his eye on the hoop in the first half, the Jackets might have won. He got eight of his 11 points in the second half.

Last time the Tygers went to Mt. Vernon, two seasons ago, they barely eked out a one point victory, and that was in doubt after the game when the Mt. Vernon scorekeeper announced the game had ended in a tie. However the error was discovered in the book.

Coach Vern Hoffman announced today he would take a squad of ten players on the Mt. Vernon trip.

Saturday night the Tygers return to the home court to meet Bellevue. Originally the game was scheduled for Friday night, but was changed to Saturday because of mid-year commencement at the high school Friday.

GAMES WANTED

GALION—Galion North Electric semi-pro basketball team wants games with teams from nearby cities to be played in Galion, preferably on Monday or Wednesday nights. Teams interested should write C. E. Crandall, care of the North Electric company, or call 21413 at Galion. Crandall, coach of the team, played five seasons with the Cleveland Rosenblums.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

NEW YORK — (AP) — The three New York baseball clubs, which can quarrel furiously over nothing at times, agree that they won't let any of their players train by themselves in warmer climates after the northern camps open. . . . "You know a ball player's idea of training," snorts Secretary Eddie Brannick of the Giants. "They work out a few minutes then go play a round of golf." . . . "We're going to urge them all to do some road work before they report," adds Ed Barrow of the Yanks. "We always do." . . . The Dodgers' Branch Rickey says he'd like to get five or six players together for preliminary work about March 1 so he could be sure how their conditioning is coming along.

CONTRARY OPINIONS.

Babe Ruth's idea that northern training will "ruin" players and that the pitchers will only be good for a few innings at the start brought a series of snorts along the baseball beat. . . . "What did he ever know about training?" was the general reaction. . . . And you gotta admit the Babe never took his spring work too seriously.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

Wilbur Jennings, Richmond (Va.) News Leader: "Has anyone thought of holding the Kentucky Derby and the Bunion Derby at the same time at Louisville this year? It seems quite appropriate in view of the ban on pleasure driving and since Churchill Downs is some three miles from Louisville."

Although Joe Choynski, who died Sunday, weighed only 170 pounds in his fighting days, he took on such big guys as Jim Corbett, 220-pound Jim Jeffries, Sailor Tom Sharkey and Jack Johnson and did all right. . . . And he claimed that in five fights with Corbett he only was licked once. . . . In his book on Gentleman Jim, Ring Historian Nat Fleisher quotes Billy Delaney, trainer of Corbett and Jeffries, as saying the Choynski-Corbett battle on a barge at Benicia, Calif., was the greatest fight he ever had seen."

Ashland Setting N. C. O. Loop Pace

SHELBY—Ashland holds undisputed first place in the North Central Ohio league cage race with five victories and no defeats.

Marion Harding, co-champs with Ashland for the basketball title last year, holds second place with four wins and one loss.

A close race is developing for third place with three teams, Shelby, Galion and Mt. Vernon, tied for that position this week. Each has won two games and lost three.

Leading the scoring is Dick Mulvaine of Marion with 91 points. Charles Heskett of Galion is second with 86; Ted Jacobs of Ashland third with 59; and Herb Poland of Shelby fourth with 51.

Ice Smoothed Out For School Meet

Return of cold weather was welcomed today by Harry Mehock, athletic director of Mansfield schools, who reported the ice at North Lake park is now the best that his six annual public school ice carnivals have had.

The thaw and later freeze has smoothed out the North Lake ice and unless there's a heavy snow before Saturday the ice carnival will be staged under ideal conditions, Mehock reported.

Preliminary eliminations will be run off during the week for grade school skaters, but prelims for high school skaters have been cancelled.

JEFFRIES REMEMBERS BLOW BY CHOYNSKI

BURBANK, Cal. —(INS)— Former Champion James J. Jeffries today recalled his 20-round fight in 1897 with Joe Choynski, famous old-time fighter who died yesterday at Cincinnati.

"I'll never forget that fight," Jeffries said. "Joe hit me with the hardest punch of any man I ever fought.

"Coming off the ropes, he banged me with a short right that broke my nose and drove my lips into my teeth."

The fight, held in San Francisco, Nov. 30, 1897, went 20 rounds to a draw. Jeffries now lives at Burbank, where he stages regular boxing shows at his famed "barn."

Big Ten Hit By Army Order

Rescinding of Freshman Rule in Athletics Seen.

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO—(AP)—Mustering college reservists into army service may drain more than 100 athletes from the Big Ten conference by spring and is almost certain to break up the great Illinois basketball team at a critical stage in its close race with Indiana for the championship.

In fact, the tap on manpower may be opened so wide that the Western Conference may find it necessary to rescind the freshman rule before spring—or at the most by next fall in order to carry on its football schedule.

The order will immediately hit Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan, whose semesters or terms ended after Dec. 31, 1942—the war department's deadline in calling up the first batch of students in Reserve Corps.

New terms began early this month at Minnesota, Purdue, Indiana, Ohio State, Iowa, Chicago, Northwestern and Notre Dame allowing completion of basketball with their present material. They may lose many athletes for track, however.

The cage teams which face losses by the order undoubtedly will be geared up in an effort to cram as many wins in the books as possible. The Badgers get back into action tonight after a layoff for examinations with the tough assignment of meeting Great Lakes on the training station floor before facing Minnesota Saturday.

The Sailors crushed Chicago, 64-35 last night. Indiana humiliated Iowa by scoring a 64-43 victory—its 12th of the season and fifth in conference play.

Minnesota grabbed an unexpected 47-46 decision from Northwestern.

Purdue evened its series with Ohio State by capturing a 56-38 triumph as unsung Paul Friend hogged 20 points. The two usual high scorers, Al Menke and Ed Ehlers, added 11 apiece.

Boudreau Confers On New Contracts

CLEVELAND —(INS)— Lou Boudreau, youthful manager of the Cleveland Indians, was in the city today to attend the dinner honoring Ken Keltner, the Cleveland Baseball Writers' choice for most valuable player in the tribe.

Boudreau was also to confer with Alva Bradley, president, and Roger Peckinpaugh, vice president concerning new contracts soon to be sent out to the players.

Sixth Indian to receive the Writers' award, Keltner was preceded by Johnny Allen, Mel Harder, Bob Feller, Lou Boudreau and Jeff Heath.

DYKES RECOVERING

HOLLYWOOD—(INS)— Recovering from a recent operation for gallstones, Jimmy Dykes, fiery Chicago White Sox manager, today was well enough to receive his first visitors at a Hollywood hospital.

Schedule Arranged For Event

Lodge Keglers Boast Great Wartime Record.

ALL the brothers of the Loyal Order of Moose in Ohio, can swell out their chests today in a "we dood it" attitude, and compliment themselves on the assured success of the lodge's second annual state bowling tournament scheduled to start in Mansfield Feb. 6.

Planning their second annual tournament, the Moose set a goal of 150 team entries in the Mansfield joust, and tournament Manager Art Hilborn today announces they hit that mark right on the nose—150 teams.

The Moose almost exceeded their goal. One more entry, received yesterday, had to be turned down because schedules already have been drawn up for the event. The schedules are now in the hands of the printers and will be mailed out to participating teams the latter part of this week, Hilborn said.

While backers of other sports events, involving transportation problems, have hedged, and studied and worried, and postponed or cancelled their attractions, the Ohio Moose started early to sound out sentiment among their membership and there never has been any question about going ahead with this year's tournament, according to Hilborn.

But even Art, an optimistic promoter of kegling jousts, was surprised at the wartime success of the Mansfield entry list.

The first state tournament staged last year at Columbus by the Moose drew 119 teams from 21 cities. This year's 150 teams come from 29 cities, an extraordinary increase under wartime conditions.

Hilborn announced the 150 team entries assure a prize list of $3,066.50.

Cities participating in the tournament, and the number of teams they are sending, are: Mansfield 24, Hamilton 14, Cleveland 12, Lorain 10, Massillon 10, Canton 9, Akron 8, Columbus 6, Middletown 6, Sandusky 4, Toledo 4, Dayton 4, Cuyahoga Falls 4, Port Clinton 3, Bryan 3, Conneaut 3, Ashtabula 2, Wooster 2, Fremont 2, Ironton 2, Piqua 2, Coshocton 2, Warren 2, Springfield 2, Galion 1, Mt. Vernon, 1 Norwalk 1, Lancaster 1, and Delaware 6.

Opening of the tournament on Saturday night, Feb. 6, will find 36 teams taking the lanes at Colony alleys, and these same teams will be back on Sunday for singles and doubles. The tournament will last for four weeks, while two weeks later the Inter-City tournament, annually the biggest in Ohio, is scheduled here.

URUGUAY MEAT PACKERS STRIKE

Suspension of 10 Workers Brings Protest by 3,500 Others.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay — Suspension of 10 workers after discovery of an attempt to place a time bomb on a British ship loading meat resulted today in a protest strike by 3,500 other workers in three packing plants.

A government commission charged with watching anti-Uruguayan activities, particularly by Axis agents and sympathizers, investigated the bombing attempt and recommended that the 10 workers be suspended because they lacked satisfactory identification documents.

The packing houses urged the workers to end the strike in order to prevent a meat shortage.

OHIOAN GIVEN FLYING CROSS

Stayed With Fortress After It Was Attacked, Damaged.

LONDON—(AP)—A distinguished flying cross was awarded today to Maj. Eugene A. Romig.

Major Romig was decorated for "extraordinary achievement" as co-pilot of a Flying Fortress. The citation said his plans "was attacked, forced out of formation and seriously damaged by enemy fighter planes shortly after completing a bombing run," but Romig displaying remarkable coolness, resourcefulness and skill "rendered invaluable assistance" to the pilot who ordered the crew to bail out. Romig, however, remained with the plane and assisted the pilot to land.

STOCK MARKET ADDS TO LAST WEEK'S CLIMB

Steel Buying Drops Below Year Ago on Production Requirement Plan.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK - The stock market added fractions to last week's spotty recovery in today's early proceedings.

At a slow opening gainers of fractions included Bethlehem, American Telephone, Chrysler, International Harvester, J. I. Case, United Aircraft and International Nickel.

Trend analysts scanned the survey of the magazine "Steel" which said steel buying currently was on a reduced scale and as much as 10 per cent under January, 1942, in some instances. This was attributed to reductions in allocations under "production requirements plan" and preliminary action toward shifting to the "controlled materials plan."

DENIES RUMOR PLANE'S FOUND

Navy Declares Search Still Continues For Transport With 19 Aboard.

(By International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO—The 12th Naval District said today that a thorough check had failed to confirm reports that the missing navy plane with 19 aboard, including Rear Admiral R. H. English, had crashed near Blue Lake, Cal.

The navy emphasized that wreckage of the plane has not been found either in the Blue Lake area or anywhere else. The statement added that a check of the report's source found it to be without foundation, the search is continuing, the navy said.

The report, said to have come from Homer Clark, Blue Lake postmaster, declared that the plane had crashed on land near Blue Lake as the pilot apparently was attempting to set the giant craft down on the lake.

Blue Lake is approximately 150 miles north of the Clear Lake country where the plane was reportedly sighted Thursday, and is about 250 miles north of San Francisco.

The plane, which left Honolulu Wednesday, reached San Francisco early Thursday and circled the bay area vainly for some time, unable to land because of adverse conditions.

Previously reports from ranchers and civilian aircraft spotters in the sparsely settled mountain area at the juncture of Sonoma, Mendocino and Lake counties, said "an unusually large airplane" was both seen and heard there early Thursday morning.

These were coupled with a grim statement from Mr. and Mrs. Warner F. Young, who live northeast of Healdsburg, that they heard what they now believe to have been the sound of a plane crashing and exploding that morning in the dark hours before dawn.

This report was at variance, however, with one from Charles Adams, operator of a ranch 14 miles east of Cloverdale. Adams said he definitely saw a giant airplane "a little after 7 o'clock Thursday morning when it was just getting light."

"The plane circled twice over my ranch," Adams said. "It was the biggest plane I ever saw. When last I saw it, it was headed for the general direction of Clear Lake."

Clear Lake, north of Adams' ranch, lies in a direct airline with the ranch and San Francisco. It has been used by the Pacific clipper planes as a secondary landing base on occasion when the regular base was not available.

A search of the Clear Lake area, however, failed to uncover any sign of the missing plane.

One of the 19 persons aboard the plane was Rear Admiral R. H. English, commander of U. S. submarines in the Pacific. Another was a navy nurse, only woman passenger. Three were navy captains, three commanders and two lieutenants. The other nine aboard were the clipper's civilian crew members.

Hoke, who was presented to the Logan Square Post by his uncle, A. P. Radoll, a veteran of World War I, enlisted in the army at the age of 15 but was discharged because of his youth two days after Pearl Harbor and the declaration of war.

RESCUE PARTY HUNTS PLANE

Signs of Life Reported Near Plane Downed in Peru.

LIMA, Peru —(INS)— A rescue party made its way into the interior of Peru in search of a Pan-American Grace airlines plane which came down near Chala, 350 miles southeast of Lima, and was spotted from the air by a military plane.

The military plane crew reported that there were signs of life near the grounded aircraft which was believed to have descended after motor failure.

The missing plane, en route from Santiago, Chile, to Lima, had been overdue since Friday. Three of 11 passengers aboard and three of the four crew members were Americans. One Dutch and two British diplomatic officials were said to have been aboard.

HITS TAXPAYER 'BOTTLENECK'

Revenue Official Says Too Few File Income Tax Returns.

CLEVELAND —(U.P.)— William J. Champion, head of revenue field crews of the 18th Ohio district of the bureau of internal revenue, warned today that income taxpayers in 22 northern Ohio counties are going to create a serious "bottleneck" unless they begin making their returns shortly.

"We have set up machinery to handle all of the returns in smooth fashion," Champion said, "but the people just won't come in and make out their returns. They are apparently waiting for the Ruml or some other pay-as-you-go plan to go into effect."

He said results are "discouraging." Not more than 1,000 have filed returns in Cuyahoga county, he said.

More Queer Angles Develop In Inquiry Into Train Murder

(By International News Service)

LOS ANGELES - The plot in the "Mystery of Lower 13" train killing thickened today as a zoot-suit Negro cook formally was booked on murder suspicion and a number of "mystery" witnesses added bizarre testimony regarding the knife-slaying of Mrs. Martha James, 21, navy wife.

Robert Folkes, 20, second cook on the death train, was removed from the Southern Pacific limited by Los Angeles police who acted for Oregon authorities. Mrs. James, four-month bride of Ensign Richard F. James, was slain in her berth last Friday night as the train sped through Oregon.

"I did not do the actual killing," detectives quoted Folkes as saying, as they relentlessly took him over details of his original story.

"Folkes has told us about eight different versions of his story," police said. "But in none of those versions has he given convincing account for the 20 minutes during which the murder probably was committed."

Protesting his innocence, Folkes admitted to police that he had been drinking before the tragedy. He has a Los Angeles police record dating back to 1940, when he was arrested for vagrancy and suspicion of attacking a white woman, and on another occasion

SOLDIERS KILLED

Two Dead, 16 Others Injured In Train Collision.

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal.—(INS)—Two soldiers were killed and at least 16 other persons were critically injured late last night when a crack westbound Santa Fe passenger train plowed into the rear of a freight train four miles north of San Bernardino.

Army authorities withheld identity of the victims pending notification of their next of kin.

The passenger train, the Grand Canyon limited, caused the freight engine and five cars to be derailed. Several of the freight cars were hurled 350 yards from the track.

The soldiers, witnesses said, were passengers in the freight caboose, which was shattered by the impact.

COMMANDOS RAID NORWAY

India's Future Clouded In Uncertainty, Bromfield Says

By KEN WOODMAN

"The future of India at this hour in history is entirely unpredictable," Novelist Louis Bromfield last night told members and guests of the Parent-Teacher association at Country Day school.

"It is bound up with the future of the whole Orient—particularly Burma, Java, Sumatra and Thailand. And those states will never willingly consent to be taken back into the British, Dutch and French empires.

"Only the Philippines, I believe, of all the 'colonial' areas of the Orient are willing now to return to the rule which existed for them before the war," the novelist added. "And whatever the British, Dutch and French may want . . . the Russians and Chinese are going to have a great deal to say about settlement of affairs in the Far East after the war."

Sketching briefly his own visit to India and his talks with Indian leaders Bromfield pointed out that it is a nation not quite as large as the United States with a population of 330,000,000, growing by several millions every year. Three hundred million of these people are illiterate, he said. They live mostly in rural areas and 90,000,000 of them have never heard of Britain and have no word for "freedom" in their share of the 27 entirely different languages spoken in the country.

Bromfield said there are 15 distinct races intermingled in the

Col. Chevalier To Be Speaker For Chamber Banquet

Mansfield Chamber of Commerce has obtained Col. Willard Chevalier, vice president and director of McGraw Hill Publishing company and publisher of Business Week, as the speaker for its annual dinner meeting Tuesday, Feb. 9, at the Mansfield Leland hotel.

The nationally-known publisher will stop in Mansfield between Chicago and Cleveland engagements, John G. Routzon, secretary-manager of the chamber, said today. His subject has not been announced but it will undoubtedly be drawn from the field of American business and industry with which he has maintained a close contact, Routzon said.

Col. Chevalier entered the publishing field in 1922 as associate editor of Engineering News-Record and later became publisher of that paper. In 1926 he launched for the company a new venture in industrial journalism, Construction Methods, a pictorial construc-

450 STRIKE AT ASHLAND, FIRM CLOSES DOORS

Pickets Surround Faultless Rubber Company Making Surgical Products.

HAS WAR ORDERS

Union President Declaring Strike Unauthorized, Cites 80 to 47 Cents Cut.

ASHLAND Approximately 450 employes of the Faultless Rubber company, manufacturing surgical rubber products for the armed forces, were out of work today following an "unauthorized walkout" of about 30 press room employes last night.

According to C. D. Hubler, president of the strikebound concern, the plant was closed this morning to all but officials and supervisors after a picket line was thrown around the factory a few minutes before day workers were to report at 8 a. m.

George Meiler, secretary-treasurer, said conferences had been planned for the coming week-end to iron out differences over union contract renewals calling for wage increases, dues checkoff and a closed union shop. Following difficulties last fall these issues were referred to the war labor board but no finding has been reported.

Edward L. Wertz, president of the UERMWA local, said the strike action last night was "unauthorized and came after 300 press room employes had been notified by foremen their day work rates would be reduced from 80 to 47½ cents an hour."

Wertz said union officers urged the men to go back to work and appealed to the WLB only when their pleas were ignored. He blamed the company's labor practices for the walkout.

"It followed repeated attempts," Wertz said, "on the part of the company to bring about work stoppage in the hope it would jeopardize the union's case before the war labor board. This conforms perfectly with the company's anti-union record in the past."

HARD BUT SURE

FDR Tells American Troops Berlin Road Tough One.

BELFAST -- (UP) -- President Roosevelt told American troops in North Ireland in a message today that "the road to Berlin is long and hard but it is very sure."

Maj. Gen. Russell P. Hartle who commanded the first American forces in the British isles, read the president's message at ceremonies commemorating the first anniversary of the arrival of U. S. troops.

"A year ago the first great convoy of American troops crossed the Atlantic and landed at North Ireland," the president said. "It came to buttress the grim defenses of this besieged fortress of freedom.

"Things have changed greatly in 12 months. We speak no longer of defense . . . We think of attack -- determined, unrelenting, smashing attack. Our troops . . . have chafed at inaction. They will get action."

HOLLYWOOD (UP) Jackie Coogan, who earned millions as a child star of silent films, was ordered today to pay $60 a month to support his estranged wife, Actress Flower Parry Coogan, and their nine-month old son.

Coogan, who is now an army glider pilot, said he has no income or assets aside from his $150 monthly pay as a technical sergeant.

Drive In From Three Points In Rommel Pursuit

Follow Up American Attack From Other Side Of Pinched Axis Forces In Africa; Russians Annihilate Nazis Near Voronezh.

(By International News Service)

LONDON—The British Eighth army was reported today to have crossed the Tunisian frontier from Libya at three points as it continued pursuit of the battered Afrika Korps seeking to join Axis forces in northern Tunisia.

An Algiers dispatch via Madrid said that British Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's troops had made their way into Tunisia at one place along the coast and along two roads toward the towns of Cheggnet and El Auogi.

The advance, it was said, was being made in the direction of Medenine where the Axis maintains a landing field adjacent to the "Little Maginot" Mareth line, 65 miles inside the frontier.

The reported crossing of the border by the British vanguard followed an assault by American forces on the town of Maknassy, in central Tunisia 50 miles east of Gafsa, in answer to a German challenge to "come out and fight."

Replying immediately to the invitation dropped from the air by the Germans, the Americans raided Maknassy and seized 80 prisoners.

The German-operated Paris radio meanwhile announced that Nazi military circles forecast an attack against the port of Gaves in southeast Tunisia by American troops reportedly moving up north of Tebessa 10 miles inside Algeria from the boundary of central Tunisia.

Precautions against Allied assaults to thrust eastward and cut the coastal road have been taken for some time by Axis forces in eastern Tunisia.

The Germans and Italians have labored repeatedly to keep the coastal passage open so that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's forces retiring from Libya may form a junction with Axis troops guarding Tunis and Bizerte.

Observers viewed the Paris radio report as an Axis attempt to ferret out information on possible Allied plans to prevent Rommel from linking forces with the Germans and Italians to the north. A note of Axis anxiety also was seen in the announcement.

Previously the Paris radio put out an entirely unconfirmed report stating that the Germans had frustrated an attempt by British Commando units to land from the sea near the western border of Libya beyond the port of Zuara to cut off a portion of Rommel's withdrawing forces.

Allied headquarters in North Africa disclosed in an official communique that the advance of Ger-

SPREAD: Allies Continue To Rain Havoc On Japs From Air

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(AP)—American forces have consolidated positions in Kokumbona, Japanese headquarters on Guadalcanal, and control the village and beach after killing 293 enemy troops, the navy reported today.

(By Associated Press)

Striking by night and day, Allied warplanes were officially credited today with raining havoc on Japanese shipping, airdromes and motor transports in Burma and the South seas, with more than 15 tons of bombs unloaded on the enemy base at Rabaul in a single phase of the offensive.

Rabaul is the big enemy stronghold in New Britain, a major source of supply and reinforcement for Japanese troops in northeast New Guinea and in the Solomons.

Dispatches said Allied night bombers darting in low despite intense anti-aircraft fire, blasted a 2,000-ton vessel believed to be a munitions ship and set towering flames that lighted the entire Rabaul harbor area.

Another medium-sized Japanese ship was bombed at a harbor wharf and left with a gaping hole in its side.

Other Allied planes dropped 1,000-pound bombs on the Japanese base at Lae, New Guinea, inflicting heavy damage, and strafed targets at Salamaua, Finschhafen and Gasmata.

Japanese raiders countered with small attacks on Allied airdromes

CHANGE: Year In M'Arthur's Life Develops Sharp Contrast

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—In contrast to the hopeless rearguard fight he was directing on Bataan a year ago, Gen. Douglas MacArthur today marks his 63rd birthday with a string of recent victories behind him as the United Nations forces under his command continue to strike offensively against the Japs in the southwest Pacific.

In the 10 months since MacArthur moved from the Philippines to Australia to asume supreme command of United Nations forces, the "Hero of Bataan" has welded a formidable fighting force which not only checked Japan's headlong invasion drive but succeeded in smashing enemy troops of Papua New Guinea.

Just how far MacArthur has traveled on the road to victory during the past year is indicated by the following comparison.

On Jan. 26, 1942, his 62nd birthday, the American-Filipino forces in the Philippines were retreating down Bataan peninsula for their last stand on the mainland, with

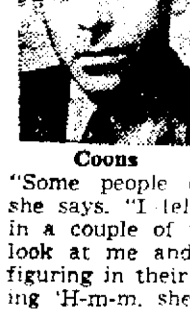
HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — We want you to know today Miss Martha O'Driscoll, a sweetheart of a girl who nearly fibbed herself into premature old age.



Coons

Martha is blonde, blue-eyed, and bears a nice resemblance to Martha O'Driscoll and no other blonde in pictures. That makes her practically unique. She's cherry, wholesome as freshly churned butter, and attractive. She's also 20, but—

"Some people don't believe it," she says. "I tell them I'll be 21 in a couple of months, and they look at me and I can see them figuring in their heads and thinking 'H-m-m, she was 18 back in 1935. . . .'"

Martha's story goes back to that summer vacation in Hollywood—in 1935—when she decided to crash pictures. It wasn't a new idea. She'd had it all her life, which was then in its 13th year. When the family left Tulsa, Okla., for Phoenix, Ariz., Martha had taken up dancing. So here she was in Hollywood, and she read an ad for dancers at Metro. She went out, and was the first girl accepted. When they asked her how old she was, she thought fast and said "Sixteen." They groaned. "We need you but you can't work as a dancer unless you're 18. If you'd said you were 18, well—"

Next day somebody called her up and said, "How old did you say you were?"

"Eighteen," said Martha glibly.

So she danced. Pretty soon she was going to school on the sets, and then she was "in pictures" for good. She has never yet missed out on a part for which she has been tested. She has never missed making friends of the people who meet her. It's one of her best assets.

Recently she came back from location at Texas A. & M. College—she's in "We've Never Been Licked," the movie glorifying the Aggies' contributions to the fighting services—and the press agent declares she acquired 7,000 new sweethearts, that being the number of Aggie cadets.

I can believe it. She's such a sweetheart of a kid herself.

JEFFERS CLASH WITH SERVICES HEADED TO FDR

Rubber Director and Armed Forces Battle Heatedly For Priorities.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(AP)—An investigation into Rubber Administrator William Jeffers' charges that "army and naval and loafers" were interfering with war production was ordered today by the house naval committee.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Mounting intensity of a priorities battle between the armed forces and Rubber Director William M. Jeffers over first claim on materials needed for vitally important programs of both brought a hurry call today for President Roosevelt's intervention.

The priorities problem, urgent as it is, nevertheless took second place in capital interest when the office of censorship permitted it to be made known that an important announcement is expected to be made public at 10 o'clock (EWT) tonight. No indication of its nature can be given presently.

Notice of the impending announcement came as congress kept an eye on the priorities dispute while studying such other pressing problems as boosting the national debt limit to $210,000,000,000, obtaining increased revenues for the war, and the manpower situation.

As a senate agriculture subcommittee summoned War Production Board Chairman Donald M. Nelson to ask what he intends to do about the priomities controversy involving the synthetic rubber program, official sources said a final decision on the Jeffers-armed services duel will have to come from the president.

These sources said army and navy heads informed James F. Byrnes, director of economic stabilization, that Jeffers' claims on materials for his synthetic rubber program would interfere with their three "must" programs—aviation gasoline, chemical warfare plants and naval escort vessels.

The conflict flared into the open yesterday when the rubber director told the council of state governments in Baltimore that the country will get war production "if we keep the army and navy loafers out of these plants."

Denouncing what he termed "interference" with production, Jeffers declared "there are too many experts in these plants" and added that "one day it's the navy and the next it's the army."

January checks which will be mailed to recipients will total $39,259. Average payment in Richland county is a few cents higher than the state-wide average, the division chief said.

The Richland county aid for aged office now has the smallest number of pension applications on hands in its history, Office Manager Berlyn V. McCready said. No applications in the office are more than 60 days old, he added.

KILLS MAN IN HOSPITAL BED

Cincinnati Divorcee Fatally Wounds Steelworker Shot In Earlier Quarrel.

(By International News Service)

CINCINNATI — Two women today faced murder charges as the result of the fatal shooting of Victor Caproni, 29, steelworker, as he lie sleeping on his bed in a Cincinnati hospital recovering from a bullet wound suffered in an earlier quarrel with his wife, resulting from a domestic triangle.

Murder charges were filed against his wife, Eleanor, 26, and a divorcee, who gave the name of Mrs. Pearl Leonard. Mrs. Leonard had lived with the Capronis in suburban Blue Ash.

According to police, Mrs. Leonard admitted shooting Caproni and said she and Mrs. Caproni planned the slaying in self defense. Mrs. Leonard said that Caproni had threatened to "kill the whole bunch of you" after being wounded by his wife during a violent quarrel.

Mrs. Caproni, free on $2,000 bond on a charge of shooting with intent to kill in connection with the earlier shooting, drove to the hospital yesterday with Mrs. Leonard, police said. Mrs. Leonard ard, police said. Mrs. Leonard then entered Caproni's room and found him asleep. She pulled the trigger twice on the gun she carried, but the safety catch was on. Returning to the corridor, she released the safety and reentering the room shot Caproni in the temple, according to her statement to police. Then returning to Mrs. Caproni in the car they drove two blocks to a fire station and surrendered to Marshal William Reeder.

Mrs. Caproni told police, they said, that she had stayed with her husband, whom she had married because of threats when she was 16, because she had no other place to go. She said she occupied a room separate from the quarters occupied by Caproni and Mrs. Leonard.

Mrs. Winegar told police her husband frequently mistreated her and became angered Saturday night when she refused to surrender to him some money she was keeping for medicine and food.

In court yesterday $80 of a $100 fine was suspended pending three years of good conduct.

MANPOWER SHORTAGE FORCES CUT IN OHIO VEGETABLE ACREAGE

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — America's farmers will be forced to cut vegetable acreage 25 per cent in 1943 unless "unexpected sources of manpower and machinery are made available," H. D. Brown, secretary of the Vegetable Growers association of America, estimated today.

Brown, professor of horticulture at Ohio State university, in an address prepared for delivery at a farmers week meeting, said a 41-state mail survey showed total acreage for potatoes and commercial truck crops would drop from 6,449,260 in 1942 to 4,836,945 this year if growers failed to receive help.

Key farmers in a number of states reported within the last two weeks that they plan to decrease vegetable acreage by 50 per cent or more "because they can't see where they will get the needed labor or equipment," he asserted.

"Thus I believe a 25 per cent reduction is a fair estimate of what will happen . . . unless some unexpected help comes in the immediate future."

Growers, "fully aware of the vital need for producing even more food than ever before . . . are face to face with the inescapable facts that millions of able farm workers have gone and are continuing to go into war plants and the armed services and that they must handle farm production this year with a termendously reduced quota of new farm machinery and other supplies," Brown declared.

He suggested these steps to aleviate farm labor and machinery shortages:

Placing 1943 farm machinery manufacturing quotas—cut to a little over half of the 1940 output—on a priority "parity with planes, tanks and guns."

Presenting draft boards a clearer picture of farm manpower needs so they will "give a little extra consideration to the requirements of agriculture in their areas."

A resurvey of food production problems "to see if some definite plans can not be made to revise allocation of men and machines so that the total war effort will not fail from a breakdown of one or its most important fronts—the farm front."

Beyond doubt the most amused person at the Parent-Teacher association meeting at Country Day school last night was Mrs. Louis Bromfield. Her husband, the novelist, was speaker of the evening but it was not his humorous anecdotes of India which caused her to chuckle most. The secret merriment came later when she acted as hostess and "poured" while refreshments were being served. "Oh, coffee!" exclaimed one after another of the ration-conscious guests as she filled their cups with the deep amber fluid. "And it looks nice and strong, too." Mrs. Bromfield knew all the time she was pouring good, dark tea!

ARMY OFFICERS CHECK DEBRIS OF FORTRESS

Witnesses Say Craft Seemed To Explode in Mid-Air Near Columbus.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—An army board of inquiry from Lockbourne air base, near here, today began investigation of the crash of a B-17 training Flying Fortress which crashed on a farm near New Albany, O., yesterday and killed all but one of 12 soldiers aboard.

The names of the occupants were withheld pending notification of the next of kin.

Sgt. James H. Foldesi, 23, of Superior, Wis., lone survivor of the crash, was reported in critical condition at Grant hospital, Columbus, where he was taken after the accident.

The crash scattered wreckage of the giant training bomber over a quarter-mile area and shook houses in New Albany.

The plane was on a flight from Hendricks Field, Sebring, Fla., to Lockbourne.

Witnesses reported that the plane appeared to explode in mid-air and then streaked to the ground in flames.

It was reported that most, if not all, of the victims were thrown clear of the ship and did not burn to death.

The flaming plane fell on the farms of Ray Schleppi and his sister, Miss Gertie Schleppi. It crashed about 12:30 p. m. Schleppi said that he was sitting down to dinner when he heard the explosion.

"I looked out the window and it went by with a whoosh of fire," he said. "I couldn't see it crash on account of the barn. We rushed out and saw this one fellow whose coat was on fire. We rushed over and beat out the flames and some of the boys took him up to the house."

The survivor, Sgt. Foldesi, was given first aid by Schleppi's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Francis Schleppi and other women until an ambulance arrived.

Soldiers and highway patrolmen quickly surrounded the wreckage and refused permission of pictures until all bodies had been removed.

Two parachutes, their silks open, were found near the plane.

Lockbourne air officials said the plane evidently grazed a tree on the dividing line between the two Schleppi farms before it crashed.

It was the third crash in central Ohio within a month. Last week a fighter plane from Lockbourne crashed near Circleville, and on Jan. 2, a twin-engined bomber crashed in the East Side of Columbus and killed the only occupant, the pilot.

Shift In Tax On Liquor Sales In Ohio Considered

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Legislation to eliminate the sales tax on liquor sold by the glass and substitute a 3 per cent tax on liquor sold wholesale will be introduced in the Ohio legislature.

The proposed legislation will be submitted with a bill which would establish a one-license system and a uniform closing hour for all permit holders in the state.

Both bills have the approval of the Buckeye Retail Liquor Dealers association.

J. A. Fetterman attorney for the Cuyahoga County Liquor Dealers association predicted the sales tax bill would win strong support in Columbus because it would mean the elimination of a "nuisance" which had become unpopular with liquor dealers and consumers in the state.

He said the one-license system, if passed, would establish in Ohio a system now in operation in every other state in the union.

Fetterman said he would also attempt to have introduced in this session a bill which would make it compulsory for every person to carry a card, similar to a drivers' license, to buy from a liquor store.

at Milne bay and Port Moresby in lower New Guinea.

On the Burma front, RAF planes flying from bases in India roared in low over a Japanese motor transport in southwestern Burma, destroying at least 10 Japanese army trucks and a staff car, damaging many others, and killing numbers of enemy soldiers.

The RAF also pounded the Japanese-held Shwebo airdrome in central Burma, in day and night attacks, and battered Japanese shipping along the northeast shore of the Bay of Bengal.

British headquarters also reported that a royal Indian navy boat patrolling the Mayu river in Burma rammed and sank a Japanese coastal craft filled with troops. At least 50 Japanese were killed or drowned.

3,000 Japs Slain In Sanananda Clean-up

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA—(AP)—About 3,000 Japanese soldiers were killed in the final Allied assaults which cleaned the enemy out of the Sanananda sector and victoriously concluded the Papuan campaign, an Allied spokesman estimated tonight.

Many coolies were taken prisoner in this area.

Sunday was the first day of even comparative rest in many weeks for American troops along the Sanananda road to Gona up the coast, but it was a day of narrow escape for an Australian officer who is in charge of artillery.

The officer was going along the trail on an inspection tour, preceded by a rifleman followed by a tommygunner. The leading two had passed a spot where a thick tree stood about 10 yards off the track in a patch of high grass.

The tommygunner happened to glance that way and saw a Japanese just reaching for his pistol. He killed him with a single shot. The Japanese proved to be a lieutenant colonel

Keep Close Watch On Garbage Cans, They're Valuable

You'd better guard your garbage can as you would a rare platinum jewel, for there won't be any more for the duration, it seems.

This advise went out to Mansfield householders today from Service Director Fred B. Wolff after no bids were submitted by manufacturers yesterday in response to the city's request for prices on 600 garbage pails and 300 lids.

Specifications called for sealed galvanized pails yet at no time did Wolff or Lester Linham, garbage department superintendent, anticipate any rush of business in bidding competition. War department priorities on materials make such products really scarce.

According to Wolff, the city's garbage operations require about 600 cans annually for replacement of worn containers and to supply new cans for new patrons of the collection service. Carelessness of patrons in permitting lids to be battered or blown about yards by winds, Wolff said, necessitates replacement of this equipment.

With no concern prepared to meet the city's demands the officials today voiced their urgent appeal for greater co-operation of the public in prolonging the life of containers now in use.

Bids were received yesterday for street building and repair materials from the Mansfield Asphalt Paving company and R. O. Darling and Son of Mansfield and the Medal Brick and Tile company of Wooster. Asphalt products, brick, crushe gravel, sand and cement prices were quoted.

Bids also were received from Universal Pipe company, Columbus, and M. L. Branigan and Brothers on cement concrete pipe and vitrified shale tile for use of the waterworks department. The only bid for supplying garbage incinerator coal was submitted by Voegele Brothers.

Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, will have a new auto for official use under the 1943 appropriations ordinance passed recently by council. Bids were advertised for today by Director Wolff. The commissioner's present car is a 1936 model.

five British provinces and 330 native states, which are themselves intermixed geeographically. To this situation, naturally conductive to conflict, there is added the disparity of the Moslem and Hindu religions. Nor is there any separation geographically between the followers of Budha and Mohamed.

"Only one person has been able to effect any kind of national unit," Bromfield said. "That is Gandhi and he will throw a monkey wrench into any negotiations with the British as long as he is alive. He was a scrawny, unprepossessing fellow when he went to England to study and he learned to hate the English there and at the university in West Africa. He is part saint, part politician, but mostly humbug. But so are a great many Indians. They understand him."

Bromfield said there is considerable mystery about the breakdown of negotiations between Sir Stafford Cripps, whom he characterized as a great man, and the All-India Congress party. On the surface, he indicated, the failure might be attributed to machinations of the viceroy—or even to Prime Minister Churchill himself. The British tories, said Bromfield, have no intention of losing their billions of dollars invested in India.

Tracing the history of the British in India, he said the present crisis began to form with the introduction of the Civil Service in 1895. Prior to that time the young men who went to India intended to make their homes there. Under Civil Service, mediocre men went out, stayed their 14 years, and returned to the island. They had no sincere interest in the progress of the country and the Indians had no respect for them.

Louis Johnson, President Roosevelt's personal observer at the Cripps negotiations, was double-crossed by both the British and the Indians, Bromfield said, and he promptly fell ill of a complication of native maladies.

"The best we can hope for from India in the war," Bromfield concluded, "is that she will stay quiet for two or three years until we can begin to unscramble the whole complex problem of the Orient. That will not be accomplished by this war, and probably not in our time—but it will be fascinating to watch."

Dog Still Lives After 800-Foot Fall Over Cliff

MEDFORD, Ore —(AP)— "Two Bits" chased an imaginary squirrel too close to the edge of a cliff, barked for help as he skidded and then fell over the ledge, a drop of 800 feet straight down.

The little fox terrier's master, Bill Ziegler, observer at a lookout station on the Rogue River national forest, gasped at the tragedy.

Two weeks later Ziegler startdown the trail to cut a pole, and just around the first curve was amazed to see "Two Bits" climbing slowly and shakily up the trail, head down and tongue out, but with his tail wagging.

The dog's fall had been cushioned by a deep snowdrift. He had finally dug himself out and then negotiated the drift-choked two-and-a-half-mile uphill trail.

More Queer Angles Develop In Inquiry Into Train Murder

he assertedly tried to enter a home occupied by three white women, police said.

Meanwhile, two women who said they occupied berths in the sleeper on which Mrs. James was killed, volunteered to police what they termed "vital information."

The women, whose names were not divulged by police, told how a waiter had given them two "complimentary" turkey sandwiches in their berth opposite fatal lower 13, shortly before pretty Mrs. James toppled into the aisle, her throat slashed.

Later, one of the women went to the washroom, they testified, and the remaining woman was approached by a man who whispered into the berth:

"Are you going to kiss me goodby, sweetheart? I'm getting off pretty soon."

The man attempted to enter the berth, the woman was quoted as saying by police. She fought him off and saw that he was a Negro. The assailant fled, although the woman did not give an alarm

Although later reports said that the two women had been on a coach and train of the same number, but on the day before the killing, police still declined to discount their story.

Police Captain Vernon Rasmussen said he still was waiting for a satisfactory check, including more detailed information from Oregon authorities and railroad officials.

Folkes said that he remembered making six turkey sandwiches in the dining car at a "private party," and that only four of them were eaten there.

Mrs. James' husband was riding a train ahead of his wife, the couple having been separated by schedules.

Police also were questioning Elmer White, Negro waiter, and N. L Shaw, porter on the death car. Both are from Los Angeles.

IMPORTANT WAR ANNOUNCEMENT DUE TONIGHT

Allied Hopes For Victory In War on Axis Soar, Nazis Prepare For Blow.

cates it will clarify many of the puzzles of the present. And it will certainly lift the hearts of all consecrated to the destruction of Nazi tyranny.

There is no longer any question that the people of Germany and of occupied Europe are being told, by word and deed, that catastrophe may be their fate in place of world rule by the Nazi masterfolk that Hitler so many times promised them.

The German propagandists themselves knew in advance that some declaration of major importance was coming tonight. Instead of passing it off with scorn and ridicule as in the past, they took the alternative of telling the German people they are truly in danger of abject defeat. It is obvious the German home front now is in urgent need of being whipsawed into further sacrifices.

During the final stages of the last war, there was a similar drumbeat of propaganda from Berlin. But while it spurred Kaiser Wilhelm's troops in the field to desperate efforts, it had absolutely the opposite effect at home.

History repeated itself in a curious way today. Just as the Landwehr in 1918 kept the German people cowed as long as possible when they threatened to rise in rebellion against the war-makers and the masters of their starvation, Nazi troops and Gestapo agents proclaimed a state of siege in the French city of Marseille, where pro-democratic elements fought against attempts to evict them from their homes in the old harbor area.

All these points of possible entry must then be fortified and garrisoned as well, with the net result that Hitler's army, already grievously battered in Russia and hard put to enforce discipline in the occupied lands, will find itself scattered paper-skin throughout the periphery of the European fortress.

From this point of view, the longer the Allied invasion is delayed the better it may be, particularly if the men responsible for Allied propaganda continue the good work that has been done and keep the Nazis guessing, wondering and fearing until powers of resistance, initiative and even decision are gravely affected if not sapped completely.

De Gaulle, Giraud In Accord, Report

LONDON — (AP) — General Charles de Gaulle, Fighting French leader, and General Henri Honore Giraud, high commissioner in French North Africa, were reported today to have reached an agreement as a result of mediation by the United States and Britain.

(Here a portion of the dispatch was eliminated by London censor.)

Talks were understood to be part of far-reaching war-winning plans of the Allied Nations.

Military leaders of the United Nations and Britain, it was reported, played a part in the talks.

Fighting French sources here had maintained for weeks that any disagreements could be quickly ironed out if representatives of the two French factions met.

With the time approaching for the final showdown in the battle to drive the Axis out of North Africa, some quarters had expressed fears that a split in French factions would create a serious situation.

French fighting units which have been active under dual leadership are counted on to play an even more important part under the agreement, it was said, details of which were not available

The United States is rushing modern equipment to the French troops, most of whom are hardened and rock trained but who have been handicapped because of outmoded weapons.

Nearly every city department presented petitions for increases, commensurate with increased living costs, in October or November coincident with the government freezing of all wages and salaries. After the War Labor board had ruled that increases would be confined to not more than 15 per cent over the 1941 levels it was announced the board would exercise no control of pay regulated by legislative bodies. This occasioned considerable delay in arriving at new schedules by Miller's salary committee.

Recently Chairman Miller assured garbage department workers, who threatened to strike, that substantial increases would be put into effect as quickly as possible.

defeat inevitable because of lack of reinforcements and supplies.

On the eve of his 63rd birthday, MacArthur was quoted in dispatches from Australia as saying that victory in the Pacific was possible through the bold use of offensive airpower, such as crushed the Japs in Papua.

A war department communique issued on MacArthur's birthday a year ago stated that "fighting on Bataan peninsula was confined to relatively unimportant skirmishes."

A few days later, however, the gravity of MacArthur's position in the Philippines was indicated by a communique which reported the arrival of fresh Japanese troops at the front presumably for the "resumption of a large-scale offensive."

MacArthur was ordered by President Roosevelt last February to leave the Philippines and he arrived in Australia by air with his family and some staff officers March 17, 1942.

Since then, MacArthur has bent every effort to make the Japanese pay dearly for the American-Filipino soldiers who were killed in the Philippines or who ended up in enemy prison camps following the fall of Bataan and Corregidor.

Despite his years, MacArthur still is an active fighting man. Recently he flew from Australia to New Guinea to supervise personally the offensive against the Japs in the Buna-Gona area.

Dispatches from Australia indicate that MacArthur's fondest dream is to smash the Japs in the southwest Pacific and to return triumphantly to the Philippine capital of Manila, from which the Japs drove him early in the Pacific conflict.

"Honesty is the best policy"—and it also obviates a constant fear of being found out.

It's gradually approaching the time of year when sunrise will come along earlier in the forenoon.

Americans can accept this principle from Russia, anyway: If you have to do a thing, you can do it.

Home Garden Products Will Help

NOT SINCE the first World war has there been justification for placing as much emphasis on home gardens as is being done this year.

However large the farm production of vegetables may be this year, there will still be actual need for the products of home gardens and it is none too early to begin laying plans for family gardens and community projects along this line which various organizations have promoted in the past.

No vacant lots should be permitted to remain as weedy, unsightly spots this spring and summer. All should be cultivated and made to produce a part of the family's food needs.

Few backyards are of insufficient size to allow space for at least a small garden and suburban residents are usually blessed with large enough lots to raise a variety of vegetables in considerable quantity, for seasonal use and canning.

One of the problems in preparing for a home garden—which this year will be known as a "Victory garden"—is to get the ground plowed if the space is too large for spading, and in some cities a Victory garden committee acts as a clearing house for men with plows and persons who want plowing done.

It is suggested that amateur gardeners will do well to give attention to such familiar vegetables as tomatoes, potatoes, beans, peas, root crops, leafy vegetables, and crops of this general order, instead of experimenting with novelty items.

Some study of successive plantings, or plantings of varieties with different maturing dates, in order to prolong the useful productivity of the garden, is also advised.

Garden authorities say there is no reason for panic-buying of garden seeds, but that the gardener who is particular in his choice of varieties should buy early.

Inflation Unavoidable If Prices Rise

BIGGEST economic problem in this country just now is how to avoid disastrous inflation. As prices rise, dollars become worth less, and more money has to be spent to get the same things. The tendency then is to meet the new situation by creating more money or credit and spreading it around to restore the old balance of prices and incomes. This is done mostly by raising wages and salaries. But that creates the danger of an upward spiral of prices and incomes which can't be stopped, and which brings hardships to people living on fixed incomes.

Prentiss M. Brown, the government's new OPA administrator, is approaching these explosive problems very gently. He doesn't believe, however, that prices can really be kept at the same level right along, and has expressed the opinion that a general increase of about one-half of one per cent a month, or 6 per cent a year, is unavoidable.

If this is true, it obviously lowers the value of money just that much, virtually cancelling the income from money invested at 6 per cent.

Probably the best thing for most people who have surplus money is to invest it in war bonds and thus keep the government's credit sound, even if the visible income from the bonds seems low.

Deadline On Gasoline Coupons

SOME explanation of the reason for placing a deadline on use of gasoline rationing coupons in A books might satisfy motorists that this is necessary, instead of being no more than an arbitrary ruling by a government agency.

The January 21 limit on use of No. 3 coupons found many motorists with some of these coupons still on hand and there was an inclination to use more of these on the final day than really necessary.

Granting that restricted use of gasoline is essential to tire conservation, it does appear that the period through which a certain number of gallons is used could be safely left to the discretion of the individual motorist, rather than that this should also be prescribed by government. Fixing a time limit for use of coupons does not seem to encourage the desired frugality.

Find Enjoyment In Simple Life

A WAR COMMENTATOR observes that Americans in Africa, who at home had been accustomed to living luxuriously, now discover new satisfactions in "rugged tent life that provides only the barest essentials of living." Likewise in Guadalcanal and New Guinea, the men in their rare periods of relaxation are made happy by such trivial things as a good meal, a carton of cigarets or a letter from home, and do not seem to miss the elaborate equipment and meals they had been accustomed to.

Perhaps, he suggests, this is an omen of American requirements and ideals hereafter. People may be happier with a new experience of the simple life than they have been with so much variety and luxury.

From the rate at which this nation is now pouring its wealth into war, it looks as if there'll be a good chance to try that kind of happiness.

Experiments Precede Acceptance

THE NEW obstetric technique, it is hoped, will make childbirth easier. It lessens pain without lessening consciousness, and seems to give both mother and baby a better chance at life. Much already has been done along this line, but much remains to do.

Some of the easier-birth experiments have worked well, and have been accepted by physicians generally. Others have seemed good at first, but later have developed drawbacks which have kept them from general use. Every such advance is surrounded with dangers. When these have been thoroughly understood and most of them conquered, then the new method is ready for extensive acceptance.

It is interesting to hear of the new discoveries, and there is aways hope that time will prove them as good as their discoverers think they are.

Discovery: Slightly warmed butter can be spread thinner.

Peace Terms Could Disrupt Unity

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — "Give me Allies to fight," Napoleon is said to have remarked, having seen over the years how the bitter dissensions among them tended to make the task of conquering them much easier.

If we look back over history, to find confirmation for this Napoleonic theory, (and we will find nothing to prove it false) we will find that, more often than not, it was differences over the peace terms which wrecked the alliances and coalitions, rather than differences over the military strategy, how many men and how much money each ally should supply, etc.

THERE always have been plenty of differences over the share of the burden each ally was carrying. We have heard something about it in this war, from the Russians, who are convinced the United States and Britain, to carry their share of the war, should have opened up a second front in Continental Europe.

But in this war there is so much fear of the consequences of defeat that every one of the Allies is likely to do all that it can, whether that effort is regarded as fair by the other allies or not.

It is when nations ,approaching victory, begin to think of peace terms that the real force of Napoleon's observation begins to manifest itself. So it seems to some of us in Washington that a good many prominent figures, including some outstanding radio commentators, are going hog wild on this theory that we must map out the plans for the post-war world with meticulous detail IMMEDIATELY.

They accept the Four Freedoms as excellent generalities, but they want to get down to brass tacks.

Well, these brass tacks are more likely to split the United Nations into bitterly hostile camps than the shrewdest propaganda agents of Herr Shicklegruber.

Why kid ourselves? Hardly anybody, outside the United States, takes the "Four Freedoms" seriously. Take South America, for instance. Most of the countries down there which are friendly to us don't conform in their political structure to OUR notions of how countries should be after the war.

TAKE our best friend in South America, Brazil. She is ruled now, and ruled very well for that matter, by a dictator who not only runs the federal government with an iron hand, but personally appoints all the governors of states!

"I heard few complaints," said a recent visitor to that country, "though I did meet a few people who thought there ought to be an election, once in a while. They generally admitted that Vargas would be almost unanimously re-elected, but they sort of thought an election would be a nice gesture toward democracy."

And by the way, are we going to insist that Russia have an election, and police the polls with marines to see that it is a fair election? Wouldn't it be a shade more practical to force free elections in our labor unions, first, and see to it that they were SECRET ballots?

Plows Open the Way

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

BIG CARLO is plowing. There's snow in the making somewhere. You can feel the sour, flat smell of it and that strange waiting stillness that comes before the flakes.

Carlo is racing against the snow. Already the large fields have been harrowed and seeded and the red oats are up five inches on the sunny slopes. Now the tractor is roaring over this last patch.

The tractor heaves its tough, gray bulk across the flat down by the creek, past the alders and oaks, the bright tangles of berries, the solemn, darkly green cedars—the tall pines with their ridged, gray bark and tufts of needles that drift like blue smoke against the gray unmoving sky.

The tractor seems filled with hot, ruthless life in the midst of all this silence. Its blades cut deep. It fights the rich, webbed dirt which has lain unbroken for years. The dark earth flows in long, straight furrows behind it. The steam rises with the sharp, musty smell of fresh turned soil. A few small rumpled birds pick their way across the furrows.

Then the tractor circles around the upper slope and disappears. Only the roar of its battle goes on—the battle between the knotted roots and rotted leaves and stubborn loam.

I sit and watch. I think how different the scene is now than it was last summer and will be when the spring is here again. These long neglected acres will be changed. There will be miles of rippling forage where, this year, there were only weeds and thorny chaparrel. And because there is more food the barns will bulge—the cattle will increase. There'll be beans and cabbage, peas and carrots, pumpkins and Swiss chard. It is good to think of this abundance where there had been only waste and weeds. More land, more life, because the plowing cleared the way. I felt warm inside myself, thinking of it.

Then my eyes fell on young Louis and the joy went out of me. Louis is big Carlo's son. He is 19 and has spent nearly all his life on this land. Now he is tall and powerful and can swing the tractor as well as his father. And next week he enters the army.

What those two are thinking as they work silently together I dare not imagine. For Carlo, there must be galling memories. As a boy, during the last war, he spent nearly nine years in the same Libyan desert which Louis may shortly know. He speaks seldom of that time, but he hates the waste and suffering with a black loathing. They cut into his youth and ambition like a plow share. They broke his roots. When the soldiering was over, he fled to America.

Since then he has built a home and family. He has had great dreams for that family. Now he cannot see ahead. The plow is moving again cutting deep. What will come of it?

I think of these things as I watch. I think of all the other homes where the plow is cutting. My heart rebels. Why must it be like this? Why cannot life stay serene and undisturbed?

And again, I look at the field. Every foot of this western frontier has been broken like this. There was no food or freedom until the plows came. And lives are as arid as fields until they too have been opened by some deep blade.

Always a plowing before there can be a wider, richer life. Is that the answer to pain? And will peace and abundance come again to our lives as surely as it will come to these hills with the spring?

Here is a reassuring word from Dr. Morris Fishbein for those who fear that shortages of various foods may have an injurious effect on American health.

The editor of the Journal of the American Medical association told a conference of doctors in Chicago the other day that "The food supply of our people, even with rationing, is sufficient to permit every one of us to get adequate amounts of vitamins A and C in our diets if we will only choose and use wisely."

To avoid waste of synthetic vitamins badly needed by our Allies, Dr. Fishbein urged Americans to use vitamin capsules sparingly.—Akron Beacon-Journal.

India Considered as Major Base For Allied Action Against Japan

—By DE WITT MACKENZIE

(EDITOR'S NOTE: After travelling in India for several weeks following a visit to Chungking, China, DeWitt Mackenzie resumes from New Delhi his regular column.)

NEW DELHI, India—Looking at the world through the big end of a telescope—that is, across the flaming battlefields of Europe and Africa towards the ultimate battlefields of Asia—it seems increasingly clear that this India from which I am writing will be needed as a major base—perhaps THE major base—for defeat of the Oriental Huns.

That is a fact which we shouldn't allow the smoke of the European conflict to obscure for one moment. India is vital to the Allied cause.

The point is that in order to uproot and drive the Mikado's forces from the continent into the sea it will be necessary to recaputre Burma and use that back door to China to equip Chiang Kai-Shek's armies. India will be be at once the arsenal and strategic jumping off place for this grand finale.

Thus it is good to receive authoritative assurances such as have been given me that India's security as a base is insured. They tell me that it is being held safe, both as regards internal and external threats, unto the day when the Allied high command is ready to deal finally with shotgun militarism.

I have reported previously in this column that big military personages here express the confidence that the danger of a successful Japanese invasion no longer exists.

Now we have further important information. Qualified quarters assure me that the authorities also have the internal situation securely in hand after six months' of political disturbances since the break down of negotiations over Sir Stafford Cripps' proposals for dominion status for India.

* * *

SO FAR as concerns the military position there is no indication, either, that the Japs intend to try invasion or that if they did that they would be successful.

India has a right to feel secure in that respect.

As to the political situation, the statement that things are wholly in hand undoubtedly represents a studied view of authorities. Certainly they are the ones who should know better than any one else what the exact state of affairs is and their apparent confidence is reassuring.

Still, even though things may indeed be well in hand, I am bound to say that the position would be much happier if the political differences were eliminated.

This is a crucial moment when good will and unity of effort are essential and those things are lacking among various parties to the controversy. In that sense India cannot be the same effective military base which it would be were political difficulties solved.

Just when India will be called upon for its supreme war effort is perhaps something which even the Allied high command cannot predict with certainty right now. Of course, operations are being conducted continually against the Japs in Burma and neighboring territory but it wouldn't be surprising if a grand offensive were not staged until Hitler has been knocked out.

Our Oriental Allies apparently are becoming reconciled to this viewpoint although disagreeing with the policy of making defeat of the Axis in Europe the initial objective. Anyway, I find they do understand the military reasoning which designed Hitler as enemy number one, and the recent Allied successes in Russia and Libya have made this reasoning much more acceptable in the Orient.

It is now becoming apparent in this part of the world that reestablishment of Allied control over the Mediterranean will be of incalculable assistance to the final campaign against Japan.

Suppose, for the sake of argument, that an all-out drive against the Mikado does not come until next fall. Will China be able to hold out until then?

I believe so, barring some wholly unexpected development in the meantime.

It should be borne in mind that actually there has been little warfare on a big scale in China for a long time. Things have been largely at a standstill.

EVEN if the Japanese should undertake some new offensive—and there's no present indication of anything big—the Chinese have lots of space to swap for time. Quite apart from that the Chinese are a gallant race and have fully demonstrated that they intend to fight the war to complete victory.

Naturally, the longer the Allies are compelled to delay the final assault on Japan the more difficult it may be to conquer the barbarians of the rising sun.

We must remember that quite apart from Japan proper there is a vast army of Japs swarming China and another big contingent holding that Burmese back door.

Now the Jap soldier isn't like other humans. Providing he is equipped with offensive weapons, he's more or less self sufficient. Take him by the scruff of the neck and chuck him into a strange land and he will find food and shelter for himself. He goes to ground like a rat and it's mighty hard to dig him out.

So we undoubtedly will find a tough job on our hands when we finally start in to clean house out here. Still it can be done, all right.

As far as China is concerned she surely will expect to provide manpower for the job, although obviously she will need much equipment from the Allies.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

(Second of Three Articles on the Pay-as-You-Go Income Tax Plan.)

WASHINGTON—There is nothing complicated about the Capper-Carlson pay-as-you-go tax bill.

In its present stage it is merely a proposal and even before it reaches the floor of the house or senate undoubtedly will have many revisions, some of which might complicate it.

At present, however, it is simply this. Instead of paying your 1942 income tax on the return blanks now released, you will fill out this return as usual and that will be your "yardstick" for making payments (nine of them starting March 15). There would be no change in the income tax rates, the Victory tax or anything else.

Then next year, when you made out your 1944 "return," you would balance off your "tentative payments" either by paying into the treasury any deficiency or receiving from the treasury any surplus existing because of the difference between what income you computed your tentative tax on and what you actually earned.

At the same time, you would be computing the basis for your tentative payments in 1944.

IF YOU know or have reason to believe that your income will change during the year, this can be provided for simply by explaining and estimating your income for the current year.

If your marital status changes during the year or your dependents increase or decrease, you report to your collector of internal revenue, make out a revised income report and from that time start paying on the new basis.

If you die during the year, your income tax liability is paid in full (there could be a fraction of a month's payments due) and there is no drain on your estate. If you lose your job or are demoted, your payments immediately shrink in proportion. If your crops fail, your sheep run over a cliff, or your cattle die in a drouth, you can get immediate relief from income tax burdens.

If you get a job for the first time in your life, you go to your collector, state your prospective income and start paying.

AS POINTED out before, the Capper-Carlson bill is in committee and what changes will be made in it before it reaches the floor are problematical.

Some congressmen think that much of the enthusiasm for it arises from the misconception that taxes for 1942 would be forgiven and forgotten and that no one would have to pay again until 1944.

This, of course, isn't the case. The tax bill has to be paid. The only question is whether it will be computed on last year's income or on the income you're earning now.

Dave Boone Says:

WELL, there ain't much left of Mussolini's balcony empire except the balcony. And that looks wobbly. Tripoli was one of the places that gave Benito that pompous, chesty look. I'll bet he couldn't throw his chest out today, even on borrowed wind.

Don't see why labor leaders in the CIO get so upset by Eddie Rickenbacker's statement that anybody who had been through the hell of Guadalcanal and got switched to the comparatively soft spot of a factory would set some production records. That crack that Eddie has "been getting all his information from industrialists" don't hold water. Eddie got some of it from the Guadalcanal jungles. And he got some great perspectives from those three weeks on a raft.

Say, that was one for the book down at the Flynn (Eddie, not Errol) hearing when Mayor La Guardia of New York refused to give his opinion of somebody on the ground it wouldn't be "exactly fair." A lot of folks never expected La Guardia to soften up like that.

La Guardia did a swell radio job Sunday. He said that general violation of ceiling prices on meats everywhere in America was admitted, and that the OPA ceilings couldn't be obeyed in view of the fact that meat on the hoof was being sold at slaughter houses at higher prices per pound than the OPA had set as market ceiling prices. It would be funny if it wasn't so tragic.

A Farmer's Diary

Water and Life

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

OUR village reservoir was built on top of the high green hill south of the town more than 20 years ago. Half way down the slope, a single deep well furnishes a never-failing source of water that is pumped into the firmly built tank high above. The water needs no water softener, and the town below needs no cisterns. Deep layers of sandsone rock provide a natural filtering process.

I suppose few villagers think of the close relation between the thick green turf that robes the hill and the gush of water from their faucets. Hardly has the snow melted from the thick bluegrass before the blades become as tender green as though newly painted. These blades and their fibrous root systems act as natural shock absorbers for torrential rains of early spring and summer. From these damp, fragrant—recesses not a drop escapes, but soaks first through the layers of porous rock.

Water — most uncommon of common things! Essential need of life—component of our very selves—yet taken for granted!

The food we live upon is largely water. Carrots, beets, cabbage, potatoes are 80 to 90 per cent water; human bodies, 70 per cent water; human brains, as much as 85 per cent; human blood, 90 per cent water. Nobody need dissent from a diagnosis of "water on the brain" . . . it is literally true of all endowed with gray matter.

It takes an enormous amount of water to grow our food. Scientists have computed that to produce a single pound of corn 450 lbs.—more than 50 gallons of water will be needed. Wheat uses 500 lbs. of water for one pound of dry matter. Fruits, because of their juicy quality and higher moisture content require even a greater quantity of water to produce them.

We have to have both air and water. We cannot waste air—only contaminate or cleanse it. But water we can thoughtlessly cut off at our source of supply—by removing the top soil and turf, by careless farming, by neglecting to save the rain where it falls. It is soft, spongy, porous soil, supplied abundantly with roots that makes the ideal reservoir of moisture, makes farming prosperous and the country rich and beautiful.
